Do You Own Your Own Home?
If Not, the Landlord Owns You
You Respect the Birds.
Pathetic Bible Passage.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Once you own YOUR OWN HOME, the roof above your head, the piece of ground beneath your feet, and know that you can PAY FOR IT, you may call yourself a thoroughly independent American citizen, AND NOT BEFORE.

Every year, through improved transportation, the owning of a home has been made easier. New regions are opened up to quick traffic by subways, elevated railroads and suburban trains.

Where yesterday there were fields devoted to farming, or lying idle, there are now paved streets, with gas, electricity, sewers, running water, waiting for men and women that have the courage and foresight to own THEIR PIECE OF THE EARTH.

You respect a bird when you see it coming back each year to build its nest in the same place. The swallows return to the same old chimney, the woodpecker comes back to his hole in the dead tree, and the tiny wren recognizes the hollow cocoanut shell put up for her comfort. They all inspire respect.

You say: "There is a bird that recognizes the importance of PERMANENCY. That little bird can't actually own property, but it does the next best thing. It settles in some one definite place and STICKS to it."

Owenship of your own house and home, a place that, once paid for, no man can take from you, has a most beneficial effect upon the mind of the father and mother, an effect greater and more important on the minds of children that live in the home.

Pity the poor child that is forever asking: "Where are we going to move next time?"

Pity children that grow up without attachment to any particular SPOT, any particular neighborhood, without any friends that they can know, and with whom they can grow up, as the years pass.

Why is it that children from the country come to the cities and achieve the great successes?

It is because those children come from country HOMES.

Their minds have grown and have expanded with a sense of security, permanency, of warm home life, neighborhood associations.

They have lived upon the earth, and it has seemed REAL to them. They have had their dreams of success, strengthened by continued living in one place, knowing the same trees, brooks and fields, and houses, however humble.

Growing up in your own home BUILDS CHARACTER.

In all the Bible there is no passage more pathetic than this:

"Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head."

Homeless, with no definite or settled place to lay His head, moving about, teaching, and finally dying a most cruel death, such was the fate of the Divine Spirit that established the Christian religion.

Let it be remembered that it is thanks to His work that THE HOME is the center of our civilization, of progress and worthwhile life. It was He, the Divine Teacher of men and the Divine PROTECTOR of women and children, that established their rights among human beings.

It is upon His teachings that the American home is founded.

From the MORAL point of view, from the PRACTICAL, common sense point of view, for the sake of the mother, and above all, for the sake of the children, every man should strive to acquire, to own and PAY FOR IN FULL, a fitting home for his family.

Grandeur is not necessary, or luxury. A good roof over your head, a substantial house, your own piece of ground within reach of a good public school and of good public library, accessible, with adequate transportation

GEORGIA WOMAN FIGHTS TO ESCAPE NOOSE FOR KILLING MOTHER-IN-LAW

Lessening of State's Battle to Hang Mrs. Ida Hughes Indicated at Hearing on Clemency Plea.

MERCY IS ASKED BY PROSECUTOR

Leniency is Based on Claim That Slayer Was Driven to Desperation by Nagging of Her Victim.

ATLANTA Ga., April 6.—A lessening in the state's fight to hang Mrs. Ida Hughes, convicted of the murder of her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes, was indicated here today shortly before hearing on a clemency plea by the woman was to start before the Georgia prison commission when Solicitor John A. Boykin, in a letter, asked mercy for her. Boykin had charge of the prosecution which resulted in the young woman's convicton.

Mrs. Hughes' attorneys asked that her sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Hughes herself was hopeful and so were her attorneys, but it was pointed out that only a very few persons had been granted clemency since Governor Clifford Walker assumed his duties at the state house.

Was Desperate.

The principal plea for leniency will be based upon the allegation that Mrs. Hughes was driven to desperation by the acts of her mother-in-law over a period of years—a term of nagging which was terminated only when her son was asked by his wife to request his mother to leave their home. That, she declared, she believed would end their differences, but it served only to fan the resentment between the two

A shot had been fired at the car when they failed to stop, the bullet passing through the side curtains of the machine, a touring car, just missing the heads of two of the passengers and plowing through the windshield. The lads asserted they failed to stop their car, believing that the gunman was either a holdup man or an enemy.

Damage Estimated at $6,000 Caused by Blaze Sunday.

One residence was entirely destroyed by flames and another partly burned in a $6,000 blaze Sunday at noon in Leetonia.

A dwelling owned by W. T. McKeefrey and occupied by Patrick Halloran was razed by the flames, which were said to have originated in a defective chimney. A residence adjoining owned and occupied by Edward Casey, was partially destroyed.

Fire broke out in the Halloran residence and spread to the Casey home where three second story rooms were damaged. The Leetonia fire department kept the flames from the first floor of the house.

The loss is partly covered by insurance.

DAY OPERATOR

Husband Formerly Engaged in Pottery Manufacturing.

Mrs. Ursilla B. Wick, 71 years old, formerly of East Liverpool, who was the first telephone girl in the United States, is dead at her home in Hartford, Conn.

As Ursilla B. Kinsey, Mrs. Wick, who was the wife of John Wick, Jr., former pottery manufacturer in Ford City and Kittanning, Pa., worked in the East Liverpool telephone exchange in 1882, when the late James H. Goodwin, father of Charles F. Goodwin, secretary of the United States Potters' association, was manager here.

The first telephone exchange was on the second floor of the old First National bank building, at the foot of Broadway, where Mrs. Wick worked for three years as day operator. At that time there were 18 local phones and two toll lines, one to Pittsburgh and another to Wheeling.

In Ill Health for Year.

Mrs. Wick, who was a daughter of the late Jonathan and Margaret Ann Kinsey, was born here March 19, 1854. She resided in East Liverpool until her marriage in 1885 to John B. Wick, Jr., when she and her husband moved to Kittanning, Pa. Five years ago, they moved to Bronxville, N. Y., where they remained until a month ago when they located in Hartford.

Although she had been in declining health for the past year, Mrs. Wick's condition did not become serious until two weeks ago.

She was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church here. Her death was announced at Sunday's services by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler.

Mrs. Wick is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Frances S. Montgomery, and one grand daughter, all of Hartford, and a brother, Alvin H. Kinsey, of Los Angeles, Cal.

GEORGIA WOMAN FIGHTS TO ESCAPE NOOSE FOR KILLING MOTHER-IN-LAW

Lessening of State's Battle to Hang Mrs. Ida Hughes Indicated at Hearing on Clemency Plea.

MERCY IS ASKED BY PROSECUTOR

Leniency is Based on Claim That Slayer Was Driven to Desperation by Nagging of Her Victim.

ATLANTA Ga., April 6.—A lessening in the state's fight to hang Mrs. Ida Hughes, convicted of the murder of her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes, was indicated here today shortly before hearing on a clemency plea by the woman was to start before the Georgia prison commission when Solicitor John A. Boykin, in a letter, asked mercy for her. Boykin had charge of the prosecution which resulted in the young woman's convicton.

Mrs. Hughes' attorneys asked that her sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Hughes herself was hopeful and so were her attorneys, but it was pointed out that only a very few persons had been granted clemency since Governor Clifford Walker assumed his duties at the state house.

Was Desperate.

The principal plea for leniency will be based upon the allegation that Mrs. Hughes was driven to desperation by the acts of her mother-in-law over a period of years—a term of nagging which was terminated only when her son was asked by his wife to request his mother to leave their home. That, she declared, she believed would end their differences, but it served only to fan the resentment between the two

SPECIAL POLICEMAN SHOOTS THRU CAR CURTAINS AS MOTORIST FLEES

Bullet From Officer Bloor's Gun Plows Through Windshield of Auto When Driver Fails to Stop.

The police today were investigating a shooting affray along the River road last night in which two of four boys, riding in an automobile, narrowly escaped being injured.

Four East End youths, whose names the police did not learn, reported to Captain Conley in the Diamond, at 9:30 o'clock last night, that some one had attempted to halt them on the River road near the Harker pottery as they were on their way to town.

A shot had been fired at the car when they failed to stop, the bullet passing through the side curtains of the machine, a touring car, just missing the heads of two of the passengers and plowing through the windshield. The lads asserted they failed to stop their car, believing that the gunman was either a holdup man or an enemy.

Later in the evening Special Officer Edgarie Bloor reported to Mayor Brown at the city hall that he had fired his gun in an effort to halt an automobile driver who had failed to heed his order to stop on the River road. Bloor declared that he fired at the cement road, denying that he

MIAMI, Fla., April 6.—Relief parties, headed by Miami policemen and firemen, today invaded the narrow strip of territory north of Miami to see if more than three lives were lost in the tornado which struck yesterday afternoon and swept southeast into the ocean, leaving a trio known dead, 29 injured and nearly 100 homes wrecked. Add to the home a small automobile as soon as you can. It will pay for itself by saving and thus increasing your time.

To give your children a permanent home and its memories, a sound education, GOOD FOOD NECESSARY TO BUILD GOOD BRAINS is more important than a few extra dollars left after you die.

The money that you pay in rent for quarters fit to live in will gradually pay for a home better than the hired quarters left behind. That has been proved a million times.

Look carefully. Select wisely, not being deceived into purchase and not being RUSHED into a purchased.

BUY ONLY WHAT YOU KNOW YOU CAN GRADUALLY PAY FOR. Do not deceive yourself about that.

But east, north, south or west, provided you remain within reasonable access of work, or business, OWN YOUR OWN HOME.

If it means an hour, or more than an hour, morning and evening going from your home to your work, don't imagine that that is a detriment.

An hour at night and an hour in the morning are not too much for leisure, for relaxation, for thought, and for reading.

There is no satisfaction greater than the satisfaction of gradually making yourself independent. The first step to real independence is TO OWN YOUR OWN HOME.

J. A. Bohnet Speaks At Bible Students' Meeting on Sunday

The return of the Jews to Palestine is a fulfillment of the scriptures, J. A. Bohnet, New York, declared Sunday afternoon in an address at the Ceramic cafeteria hall, West Fifth street, under the auspices of the International Bible Students' association. His subject was "The Jews Rebuilding Palestine—the Reason."

"The Jews are now returning to their own land," he asserted. "Seven hundred thousand have already settled there and this number will gradually increase by the great influx of Jews which continue to pour back from all countries and lands. Luke 21:20 21 shows that when we see Jerusalem compassed about with armies, and it is compassed about on every side now by the British, then Jesus said we should understand the times in which we are living and through which some would pass.

"Before Jesus left the earth He said He would come again and receive His church to Himself. Jesus in His second coming will be an invisible being, present, yet unperceived by the world of mankind. The scriptures say that He will come as a thief, quietly and stealthily. The only way in which the world will ever see Jesus will be with the eye of understanding."

Fines Totaling $216 Assessed Against Three Men by Mayor

Fines totaling $216.20 were assessed against three men arrested here Saturday night, when they were arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown, Sunday, on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Edward Diloreto, Massillon, was fined $100 and costs while A. M. Vallaro, Midland and Marion Sylcist, Wellsville, drew penalties of $50 and costs, each. The trio, it is claimed, had three revolvers and two large knives in their possession when searched. Michael DeBacco, Canton, and Joseph Gloanucci, Wellsville, charged with being suspicious persons, were dismissed.

The five men were arrested by Patrolman Smith and Special Policemen Torrence and Malone, in East End, Saturday night. The officers, it is claimed, were on the lookout for an automobile transporting liquor when they halted the car in which the five men were riding. No liquor was found in the machine, but three of the men when searched were found to be heavily armed, the police say.

CHAPMAN WILL ASK NEW TRIAL

Not Worried by Death Sentence, Bandit Plans Appeal.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 6.—In his death cell today, Gerald Chapman, convicted murderer, was hard at work in planning a campaign for an appeal. Chapman will probably base his argument for a new trial on the submission to the jury, on request, of a railroad time table which had not been in evidence.

The jury wished to check up the time it would take Chapman to get from Springfield, Mass., to Brooklyn, where the bandit king claimed he was the night before the killing of Policeman James Skelly, in New Britain, on October 15.

Chapman's attorneys contend that the jury had no right to go into the matter of the time table inasmuch as it had not been admitted as evidence.

The exact location of the "Chapman cell" within the grim, gray walls of the Wethersfield prison is known only to a few trusted guards and Warden Scott. Other secret measures also have been taken by the prison authorities to guard against rescue of Chapman by "Dutch" Anderson, his friend and teacher, or any of Chapman's other friends.

The prospect of hanging on June 25 is apparently not worrying Chapman. He ate his usual hearty breakfast this morning. Then he resumed his reading of the works of Anatole France. Chapman let it be known he believes it was the testimony of Lillian Knell, waitress at the Old Colony in Meriden, Conn., which sealed his fate in the minds of the jury.

The timid waitress identified Chapman from the witness stand as having spent the night preceding the crime at the Old Colony in with Walter Shean, Chapman's accomplice. The inn is only 13 miles from the New Britain store where policeman James J. Skelly was shot and killed. The girl's testimony was repeated to the jury on their request during deliberations.

New York Youth Surrenders After Killing Sweetheart

NEW YORK, April 6.—"I shot my sweetheart. The reason I shot her will never be known."

These words, uttered by James A. O'Mahoney, 27, as he tossed a revolver on the desk of Captain Patrick Flanngan, of the Greenwich, Conn., police, were the only solution authorities of that city and New York had today for the murder of Miss Beatrice Donnelly, 27, in a lonely neck of woods near Greenwich.

Beyond admitting the killing, O'Mahoney gave police no other explanation of his motive for the crime. His only comment was:

"I have been thinking of killing her for some time and I just had to do it."

Immediately following his matter of fact declaration, made in a police station at Greenwich Sunday afternoon, O'Mahoney shackled to a policeman led detectives to an unfrequented spot of the woods near the Indian Harbor Yacht club.

There in a clump of shrubbery O'Mahoney showed the body of his sweetheart. There were five bullets embodied in her head and neck. O'Mahoney, puffing a cigaret, told police how he had carried the body for 50 yards from a point in the road where he had shot her.

WOMAN'S SLAYER HANGS HIMSELF

NEW YORK, April 6.—A few hours before a lunacy commission was to report on his sanity, Solomon Batten, 29, awaiting trial for the murder of his brother's wife, Esther whom he slew because she repulsed his advances, hanged himself in his cell in the Tombs early today.

YOUR HEALTH

Indigestion Goes Hand in Hand with Bad Eating

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health New York City

PERHAPS the most common of all human diseases is dyspepsia, or indigestion. Every family has its victims and almost every individual is an occasional sufferer.

Why should there be so much trouble in connection with a function so essential?

If it were merely a matter of overworking an organ, why does not the heart complain? It is busy every minute, every hour, and all the time you live. To have the heart complain is a rare thing.

The lungs are called upon twenty times every minute and they go cheerfully about their endless task. But the stomach and intestinal tract are growing almost every day.

If the heart and lungs were as much at the mercy of careless eating as are the digestive organs they would complain too. They are lucky. They are not under your personal management.

It is your fault that the digestion fails. It isn't the fault of your body.

Most digestive disorders can be traced to wrong eating. Everybody has his peculiarities—to use a big word his idiosyncrasies. Not everybody can eat everything.

A friend of mine says he can eat anything which does not bite him first. But most persons must avoid a few dishes. Shellfish, cucumbers, cooked cabbage, fat meat and a few other things are peculiarly difficult of digestion for some.

It has been said that God could have made a better berry than the strawberry, but He never did. In spite of this however this delicious fruit is little less than poison to some unfortunates.

Pastries, candies, pancakes, sausage, coffee and a few other things may not be well borne. With full knowledge that discomfort will follow their consumption there are plenty of unwise mortals who do not hesitate to partak freely of the disturbing foods.

You can't fool your stomach. Why try? If you can't handle certain substances which appeal strongly to your palate, why is the use of yielding to the temptation? Really—forgive me if I suggest it—doesn't this show a lack of character?

Of course there are underlying physical conditions which influence digestion. For instance, constipation is responsible for many a day of indigestion.

While there are other causes for constipation, it too is frequently the result of wrong eating habits. Then in its turn the constipation adds to the causes of indigestion.

I have suggested a few of the things which make for failure of digestion. Think them over and on another occasion I will suggest other matters which have to do with digestive troubles.

HERRIOT FALL IS PREDICTED

Millerand's Victory Interpreted to Mean Premier's Overthrow.

PARIS, April 6.—Overthrow of the Herriot government is only a matter of days, according to today's newspapers' interpretation of Alexandre Millerand's sweeping victory yesterday. The former president of the republic was elected to the senate from the Seine district by a two-thirds' majority.

The cabinet listened today for three hours to the reading by Anatole De Monzie, new minister of finance, of his proposed financial plan. This includes "voluntary contributions," asking each French citizen to give up ten per cent of his actual fortune for which the government will pay four per cent interest.

The cabinet did not reach a decision on the De Monzie plan. It adjourned to meet again this afternoon. In the meantime De Monzie meets with directors of the bank of France to discuss issuance of four billion francs in new bank notes.

"Millerand's election to the senate was the political death rattle of Premier Herriot," said Petit journal. "The beginning of a movement of revolt which threatens eventually to sweep away the Herriot administration," was Echo de Paris' attitude.

"In the same town of Fontainbleau where Napoleon said his farewell, yesterday afternoon was heard the swan song of Herriot, who was the inglorious Napoleon of the London conference," the Echo added, referring to the premier's speech of defiance.

"Milleran's election proves that truth crushed to earth will rise again. Truth is rising," said Lavenir.

"Herriot is punished by his own mistakes," said the Communist newspaper Humanite.

Government newspapers attempted to explain away Millerand's victory.

"Millerand's victory does not mean a defeat for Herriot," said Quotidien. "Millerand's party, the National bloc, took adavantage of Clemenetl's resignation, which was largely responsible for the outcome of the election."

"We will not contest the National bloc's temporary victory," said Le Oeuvre. "But it never would have been possible without the iniquitous electoral system of Paris."

Theunis, Belgium's Premier, Quits Post, Is Brussels Report

LONDON, April 6.—Premier Theunis of Belgium has resigned and King Albert has accepted his resignation, according to a Central News dispatch from Brussels today.

The premier had planned to retire regardless of the outcome of yesterday's election.

The outcome of the elections was still indefinite today, although it was indicated the Socialists had increased their power considerably.

Panama's new railroad will have only a three-foot gauge.

Woman and Alleged Lover are Held for Murder of Husband

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 6.—Mrs. Margaret Lenardy, 30, and her alleged lover, John Provanzano, 22, were being held by police today as material witnesses in the mysterious slaying of her husband, James, 32, while he lay asleep beside his wife in bed early yesterday morning. The Lenardys came here from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Lenardy was shot four times at close range by some one who entered the Lenardy home by removing the kitchen window and creeping past three sleeping children in an adjoining room.

The slayer escaped without being seen by Mrs. Lenardy, who claims she was not awakened by the shots, and discarded his gun in a nearby yard.

David Stephenson Attacks Indictment On Grave Charge

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 6.—Charging that the Marion county grand jury indicted David C. Stephenson, former Indiana dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, for the alleged criminal attack upon Madge Oberholtzer, 28, was improperly selected and prejudiced, counsel for Stephenson today asked the criminal court to quash all charges.

Judge James A. Collins took the motion under advisement.

The attention of the prosecution in the case today was directed toward a search for Earl Gentry and Earl Earl Klenk, both of whom were charged with the former klan leader on a conspiracy count growing out of the alleged criminal attack.

He Would Lie Awake Nights For Hours

Catarrh of Head and Stomach Almost Wrecked This Man's Health.

Pays Glowing Tribute Now to World's Tonic

"For fifteen long years I was practically all the time suffering until I began taking World's Tonic and I suffered agonies with my stomach. For hours after every meal I was racked with pain from head to foot and nothing seemed to relieve me until I took World's Tonic, which I now recommend to everybody else.

"For honestly, I think it is the grandest medicine on earth", said Mr. W. H. Mitchel of Dayton, Ohio in a recent letter to the World's Tonic home office. "Pains in my stomach bothered me and usually it seemed that I had a lump in my stomach. The food I ate did not taste good, my appetite was very poor and I also suffered from catarrh of the head. Mornings I would wake up with my nose all stopped up and it would require sometimo to remove the dry scabs that had formed during the night. I would spit up a great deal of mucus. I became uneasy for fear this catarrh might turn into something worse.

"Many said I suffered from ulcerated stomach which they said was the reason I had indigestion all the time and fluttering of the heart. Being in this condition so long got on my nerves and I would lie awake for hours at night and was rarely able to work the next day. REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 6.—Active trading in the motor and oil stocks with prices gradually advancing to higher levels, featured the stock market in the early trading today. The rally in prices since last Friday has benefitted principally the stocks of the motor manufacturers, the so-called automobile accessory, companies and the oil stocks, and has considerably increased the market activity of a dozen or more heretofore inactive motor shares, like Jordan, Hupp, Hudson, Pierce Arrow, etc. The Maxwell stocks jumped into the foreground at the opening of business today the "B" stock mounting to a new high at 62 5/8 and "A" stock pushing through to 92.

Investment interest in the forthcoming issuance of new Dodge Brothers securities is keen. Nash motors jumped to a record high at 334, up 14½.

Oil stocks made further progress in their early rally from the low levels of last week, despite the fact that producers in the mid-continent field are expecting a cut in crude oil prices there this week.

Compared to last weke's low price, Mariand Oil showed a gain today of about 5 points; Sinclair up 2½ at 20½; Phillips Petroleum up 3; Midcontinent up 2; Standard Oil of New Jersey up 3; Skelly up 3; Shell Union up 2.

Both the grain and cotton markets opened higher and showed considerable strength in the early dealings, call money opened at 3¾ per cent. The slight increase over Friday's close. Commodity prices were soft, though the decline of 3 points in Fishers index for last week was due principally to the drop in wheat futures.

The French political and financial crisis was without particular significance in American markets.

women until the elder was shot dead. Mrs. Hughes will contend that she was so enraged when her mother-in-law attempted to search a trunk containing her personal belongings that she fired without knowing what she had done.

"I don't remember having the gun in my hand," Mrs. Hughes said in an interview. "The first time I saw it from the time my husband laid it down was when it was introduced in evidence during my trial."

Write Governor.

On the other hand there will be foes a-plenty for the young woman. Daughters and a son of Mrs. M. C. Hughes have joined to accuse their sister-in-law of "outrageous conduct" to an extent which compelled her own mother to order her from home at the age of 12. They have written Governor Walker that the very dress Mrs. Ida Hughes wore at the trial was the property of their mother—taken by their sister-in-law. Mrs. M. C. Hughes, they contend, consented to live with Ida and her husband only after she had been begged many times.

Hundreds of letters from all parts of the country have been received by the governor bearing on the case, and a very great many of them have demanded that the law be allowed to take its course.

"What is a jury trial for, anyway?" asked one writer, a school teacher.

The sentence of the court now is that Mrs. Hughes be hanged on April 24.

Only two women have been put to death legally in the state of Georgia, so far as records show, and these are said to have both been negroes. No white woman, so far as records show, has ever mounted the scaffold.

had pointed his gun point blank at the machine.

Bloor had stopped another car along the road, which, it is claimed, carried four passengers. While he was questioning the occupants of the machine, the car bearing the four youths approached, headed in the direction of town. The driver said that he heard some one call for him to stop but as the man wore no uniform he did not recognize him as a policeman.

The quartet drove to the Diamond and thinking that some one had attempted to rob them they asked the police to be on the lookout for their assailant.

Three Towns Suffer.

The twister, formed apparently when two heavy storm clouds crashed head-on over the everglades northwest of Hialeah, switched its conelike tail over six townships north of here. It finally swooped out into the open sea.

Witnesses of the tornado said that it swept out to the Everglades southeastward for a half mile, flattening four houses enroute, and then struck the White Belt dairy with full velocity, piling up 19 houses and sheds in huge stacks of kindling wood, and sucking trees, debris, animals and human beings high into the air.

It was traveling north and east at a speed of about 20 miles an hour in a hop, skip and jump movement. It passed over Hialeah, doing little damage to the million dollar racing plant there, Little River, Lemon City, Biscayne Heights, Liberty and Buena Vista, reaping heavy damage in the first three, but scarcely toughing the last three.

The class has been divided into two sides—the Blues, in charge of George Pickens, and the Reds, captained by Charles Pomeroy. The Blue side had 100 members out Sunday, the Reds 95.

This class, said to be the largest in the Ohio Valley, is taught by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the church.

Add to the home a small automobile as soon as you can. It will pay for itself by saving and thus increasing your time.

To give your children a permanent home and its memories, a sound education, GOOD FOOD NECESSARY TO BUILD GOOD BRAINS is more important than a few extra dollars left after you die.

The money that you pay in rent for quarters fit to live in will gradually pay for a home better than the hired quarters left behind. That has been proved a million times.

Look carefully. Select wisely, not being deceived into purchase and not being RUSHED into a purchased.

But east, north, south or west, provided you remain within reasonable access of work, or business, OWN YOUR OWN HOME.

J. A. Bohnet Speaks At Bible Students' Meeting on Sunday

The return of the Jews to Palestine is a fulfillment of the scriptures, J. A. Bohnet, New York, declared Sunday afternoon in an address at the Ceramic cafeteria hall, West Fifth street, under the auspices of the International Bible Students' association. His subject was "The Jews Rebuilding Palestine—the Reason."

"The Jews are now returning to their own land," he asserted. "Seven hundred thousand have already settled there and this number will gradually increase by the great influx of Jews which continue to pour back from all countries and lands. Luke 21:20-21 shows that when we see Jerusalem compassed about with armies, and it is compassed about on every side now by the British, then Jesus said we should understand the times in which we are living and through which some would pass.

"Before Jesus left the earth He said He would come again and receive His church to Himself. Jesus in His second coming will be an invisible being, present, yet unperceived by the world of mankind. The scriptures say that He will come as a thief, quietly and stealthily. The only way in which the world will ever see Jesus will be with the eye of understanding."

Fines Totaling $216 Assessed Against Three Men by Mayor

Fines totaling $216.20 were assessed against three men arrested here Saturday night, when they were arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown, Sunday, on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Edward Diloreto, Massillon, was fined $100 and costs while A. M. Vallaro, Midland, and Marion Sylcist, Wellsville, drew penalties of $50 and costs, each. The trio, it is claimed, had three revolvers and two large knives in their possession when searched. Michael DeBacco, Canton, and Joseph Gloanucci, Wellsville, charged with being suspicious persons, were dismissed.

The five men were arrested by Patrolman Smith and Special Policemen Torrence and Malone, in East End, Saturday night. The officers, it is claimed, were on the lookout for an automobile transporting liquor when they halted the car in which the five men were riding. No liquor was found in the machine, but three of the men when searched were found to be heavily armed, the police say.

TWO CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

BATAVIA, N. Y., April 6.—Two children were burned to death and nine other persons seriously injured when a tenant house on the Georgia Rhodes farm, between Batavia and Alabama Center, was destroyed by fire today. The dead are: John Scroger, 12, and Avis Scroger, 5 years old. Their bodies, charred beyond recognition, were found in the ashes of the two-story frame house.

William Scroger, their father, was seriously burned and is not expected to live.

Seven other children ranging in age from less than a year to 16 years, and the mother, were burned about the face and arms. The mother is in a serious condition, but is expected to recover.

CHAPMAN WILL ASK NEW TRIAL

Not Worried by Death Sentence, Bandit Plans Appeal.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 6.—In his death cell today, Gerald Chapman, convicted murderer, was hard at work in planning a campaign for an appeal. Chapman will probably base his argument for a new trial on the submission to the jury, on request, of a railroad time table which had not been in evidence.

The jury wished to check up the time it would take Chapman to get from Springfield, Mass., to Brooklyn, where the bandit king claimed he was the night before the killing of Policeman James Skelly, in New Britain, on October 15.

Chapman's attorneys contend that the jury had no right to go into the matter of the time table inasmuch as it had not been admitted as evidence.

The exact location of the "Chapman cell" within the grim, gray walls of the Wethersfield prison is known only to a few trusted guards and Warden Scott. Other secret measures also have been taken by the prison authorities to guard against rescue of Chapman by "Dutch" Anderson, his friend and teacher, or any of Chapman's other friends.

The prospect of hanging on June 25 is apparently not worrying Chapman. He ate his usual hearty breakfast this morning. Then he resumed his reading of the works of Anatole France. Chapman let it be known he believes it was the testimony of Lillian Knell, waitress at the Old Colony in Meridien, Conn., which sealed his fate in the minds of the jury.

The timid waitress identified Chapman from the witness stand as having spent the night preceding the crime at the Old Colony in with Walter Shean, Chapman's accomplice. The inn is only 13 miles from the New Britain store where policeman James J. Skelly was shot and killed. The girl's testimony was repeated to the jury on their request during deliberations.

New York Youth Surrenders After Killing Sweetheart

NEW YORK, April 6.—"I shot my sweetheart. The reason I shot her will never be known."

These words, uttered by James A. O'Mahoney, 27, as he tossed a revolver on the desk of Captain Patrick Flannigan, of the Greenwich, Conn., police, were the only solution authorities of that city and New York had today for the murder of Miss Beatrice Donnelly, 27, in a lonely neck of woods near Greenwich.

Beyond admitting the killing, O'Mahoney gave police no other explanation of his motive for the crime. His only comment was:

"I have been thinking of killing her for some time and I just had to do it."

Immediately following his matter of fact declaration, made in a police station at Greenwich Sunday afternoon, O'Mahoney shackled to a policeman led detectives to an unfrequented spot of the woods near the Indian Harbor Yacht club.

There in a clump of shrubbery O'Mahoney showed the body of his sweetheart. There were five bullets embodied in her head and neck. O'Mahoney, puffing a cigaret, told police how he had carried the body for 50 yards from a point in the road where he had shot her.

WOMAN'S SLAYER HANGS HIMSELF

NEW YORK, April 6.—A few hours before a lunacy commission was to report on his sanity, Solomon Batten, 29, awaiting trial for the murder of his brother's wife, Esther whom he slew because she repulsed his advances, hanged himself in his cell in the Tombs early today.

YOUR HEALTH

Indigestion Goes Hand in Hand with Bad Eating

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

PERHAPS the most common of all human diseases is dyspepsia, or indigestion. Every family has its victims and almost every individual is an occasional sufferer.

Why should there be so much trouble in connection with a function so essential?

If it were merely a matter of overworking an organ, why does not the heart complain? It is busy every minute, every hour, and all the time you live. To have the heart complain is a rare thing.

The lungs are called upon twenty times every minute and they go cheerfully about their endless task. But the stomach and intestinal tract are growing almost every day

If the heart and lungs were as much at the mercy of a careless one as are the digestive organs they would complain too. They are lucky. They are not under your personal management.

It is your fault that the digestion fails. It isn't the fault of your body.

Most digestive disorders can be traced to wrong eating. Everybody has his peculiarities—I use a big word for his idiosyncrasies. Not everybody can eat everything.

A friend of mine says he can eat anything which does not bite him first. But most persons must avoid a few dishes. Shellfish, cucumbers, cooked cabbage, fat meat and a few other things are peculiarly difficult of digestion for some.

It has been said that God could have made a better berry than the strawberry, but He never did. In spite of this, however, this delicious fruit is little less than poison to some unfortunates.

Pastries, candies, pancakes, sausage, coffee and a few other things may not be well borne. With full knowledge that discomfort will follow their consumption, there are plenty of unwise mortals who do not hesitate to partake freely of the disturbing foods.

You can't fool your stomach. Why try? If you can't handle certain substances which appeal strongly to your palate, why is the use of, yielding to the temptation? Really—forgive me if I suggest it—doesn't this show a lack of character?

Of course there are underlying physical conditions which influence digestion. For instance, constipation is responsible for many a day of indigestion.

While there are other causes for constipation, it too is frequently the result of wrong eating habits. Then, in its turn, the constipation adds to the causes of indigestion.

I have suggested a few of the things which make for failure of digestion. Think them over and on another occasion I will suggest other matters which have to do with digestive troubles.

HERRIOT FALL IS PREDICTED

Millerand's Victory Interpreted to Mean Premier's Overthrow.

PARIS, April 6.—Overthrow of the Herriot government is only a matter of days, according to today's newspapers' interpretation of Alexandre Millerand's sweeping victory yesterday. The former president of the republic was elected to the senate from the Seine district by a two-thirds majority.

The cabinet listened today for three hours to the reading by Anatole De Monzie, new minister of finance, of his proposed financial plan. This includes "voluntary contributions," asking each French citizen to give up ten per cent of his actual fortune for which the government will pay four per cent interest.

The cabinet did not reach a decision on the De Monzie plan. It adjourned to meet again this afternoon. In the meantime De Monzie meets with directors of the bank of France to discuss issuance of four billion francs in new bank notes.

"Millerand's election to the senate was the political death rattle of Premier Herriot," said Petit journal. "The beginning of a movement of revolt which threatens eventually to sweep away the Herriot administration," was Echo de Paris' attitude.

"In the same town of Fontainbleau where Napoleon said his farewell, yesterday afternoon was heard the swan song of Herriot, who was the inglorious Napoleon of the London conference," the Echo added, referring to the premier's speech of defiance.

"Milleran's election proves that truth crushed to earth will rise again. Truth is rising," said Lavenir.

"Herriot is punished by his own mistakes," said the Communist newspaper Humanite.

Government newspapers attempted to explain away Millerand's victory.

"Millerand's victory does not mean a defeat for Herriot," said Quotidien. "Millerand's party, the Natinoal bloc, took adavantage of Clementel's resignation, which was largely responsible for the outcome of the election."

"We will not contest the National bloc's temporary victory," said Le Oeuvre. "But it never would have been possible without the iniquitous electoral system of Paris."

Theunis, Belgium's Premier, Quits Post, Is Brussels Report

LONDON, April 6.—Premier Theunis of Belgium has resigned and King Albert has accepted his resignation, according to a Central News dispatch from Brussels today.

The premier had planned to retire regardless of the outcome of yesterday's election.

The outcome of the elections was still indefinite today, although it was indicated the Socialists had increased their power considerably.

Woman and Alleged Lover are Held for Murder of Husband

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 6.—Mrs. Margaret Lenardy, 30, and her alleged lover, John Provanzano, 22, were being held by police today as material witnesses in the mysterious slaying of her husband, James, 32, while he lay asleep beside his wife in bed early yesterday morning. The Lenardys came here from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Lenardy was shot four times at close range by some one who entered the Lenardy home by removing the kitchen window and creeping past three sleeping children in an adjoining room.

The slayer escaped without being seen by Mrs. Lenardy, who claims she was not awakened by the shots, and discarded his gun in a nearby yard.

David Stephenson Attacks Indictment On Grave Charge

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 6.—Charging that the Marion county grand jury indicted David C. Stephenson, former Indiana dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, for the alleged criminal attack upon Madge Oberholtzter, 28, was improperly selected and prejudiced, counsel for Stephenson today asked the criminal court to quash all charges.

Judge James A. Collins took the motion under advisement.

The attention of the prosecution in the case today was directed toward a search for Earl Gentry and Earl Klenk, both of whom were charged with the former klan leader on a conspiracy count growing out of the alleged criminal attack.

He Would Lie Awake Nights For Hours

Catarrh of Head and Stomach Almost Wrecked This Man's Health.

Pays Glowing Tribute Now to World's Tonic

"For fifteen long years I was practically all the time suffering until I began taking World's Tonic and I suffered agonies with my stomach. For hours after every meal I was racked with pain from head to foot and nothing seemed to relieve me until I took World's Tonic, which I now recommend to everybody else.

"For honestly, I think it is the grandest medicine on earth", said Mr. W. H. Mitchel of Dayton, Ohio in a recent letter to the World's Tonic home office. "Pains in my stomach bothered me and usually it seemed that I had a lump in my stomach. The food I ate did not taste good, my appetite was very poor and I also suffered from catarrh of the head. Mornings I would wake up with my nose all stopped up and it would require sometime to remove the dry scabs that had formed during the night. I would spit up a great deal of mucus. I became uneasy for fear this catarrh might turn into something worse.

"Many said I suffered from ulcerated stomach which they said was the reason I had indigestion all the time and fluttering of the heart. Being in this condition so long got on my nerves and I would lie awake for hours at night and was barely able to work the next day. I went this way day after day, week after week, without getting any relief until World's Tonic came into my home. What a blessing it has been for it saved me many hours of good sleep and worry and it has put me in condition so I am able to work with vim.

"I can now eat anything I want without any bad after effects and the catarrh in my head is about gone. In fact, World's Tonic has done everything claimed for it and I had to use only five bottles to obtain all this good result."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 6.—Active trading in the motor and oil stocks with prices gradually advancing to higher levels, featured the stock market in the early trading today. The rally in prices since last Friday has benefitted principally the stocks of the motor manufacturers, the so-called automobile accessory, companies and the oil stocks, and has considerable increased the market activity of a dozen or more heretofore inactive motor shares, like Jordan, Hupp, Hudson, Pierce Arrow, etc. The Maxwell stocks jumped into the foreground at the opening of business today the "B" stock mounting to a new high at 62 5/8 and "A" stock pushing through to 92.

Investment interest in the forthcoming issuance of new Dodge Brothers securities is keen. Nash motors jumped to a record high at 334, up 14½.

Oil stocks made further progress in their early rally from the low levels of last week, despite the fact that producers in the mid-continent field are expecting a cut in crude oil prices there this week.

Compared to last weke's low price, Mariand Oil showed a gain today of about 5 points; Sinclair up 2½ at 20½; Phillips Petroleum up 3; Midcontinent up 2; Standard Oil of New Jersey up 3; Skelly up 3; Shell Union up 2.

Both the grain and cotton markets opened higher and showed considerable strength in the early dealings, call money opened at 3¾ per cent. The slight increase over Friday's close. Commodity prices were soft, though the decline of 3 points in Fishers index for last week was due principally to the drop in wheat futures.

The French political and financial crisis was without particular significance in American markets.

women until the elder was shot dead. Mrs. Hughes will contend that she was so enraged when her mother-in-law attempted to search a trunk containing her personal belongings that she fired without knowing what she had done.

"I don't remember having the gun in my hand," Mrs. Hughes said in an interview. "The first time I saw it from the time my husband laid it down was when it was introduced in evidence during my trial."

Write Governor.

On the other hand there will be foes a-plenty for the young woman. Daughters and a son of Mrs. M. C. Hughes have joined to accuse their sister-in-law of "outrageous conduct" to an extent which compelled her own mother to order her from home at the age of 12. They have written Governor Walker that the very dress Mrs. Ida Hughes wore at the trial was the property of their mother—taken by their sister-in-law. Mrs. M. C. Hughes, they contend, consented to live with Ida and her husband only after she had been begged many times.

Hundreds of letters from all parts of the country have been received by the governor bearing on the case, and a very great many of them have demanded that the law be allowed to take its course.

"What is a jury trial for, anyway?" asked one writer, a school teacher.

The sentence of the court now is that Mrs. Hughes be hanged on April 24.

Only two women have been put to death legally in the state of Georgia, so far as records show, and these are said to have both been negroes. No white woman, so far as records show, has ever mounted the scaffold.

had pointed his gun point blank at the machine.

Bloor had stopped another car along the road, which, it is claimed, carried four passengers. While he was questioning the occupants of the machine, the car bearing the four youths approached, headed in the direction of town. The driver said that he heard some one call for him to stop but as the man wore no uniform he did not recognize him as a policeman.

The quartet drove to the Diamond and thinking that some one had attempted to rob them they asked the police to be on the lookout for their assailant.

Careful check of every available source of information early today revealed that 21 homes were totally destroyed although many others were partially dismantled.

Three Towns Suffer.

The twister, formed apparently when two heavy storm clouds crashed head-on over the everglades northwest of Hialeah, switched its cone-like tail over six townships north of here. It finally swooped out into the open sea.

Witnesses of the tornado said that it swept out to the Everglades southeastward for a half mile, flattening four houses enroute, and then struck the White Belt dairy with full velocity, piling up 19 houses and sheds in huge stacks of kindling wood, and sucking trees, debris, animals and human beings high into the air.

It was traveling north and east at a speed of about 20 miles an hour in a hop, skip and jump movement. It passed over Hialeah, doing little damage to the million dollar racing plant there, Little River, Lemon City, Biscayne Heights, Liberty and Buena Vista, reaping heavy damage in the first three, but scarcely toughing the last three.

195 AT BARACA CLASS SESSION

Attendance at the Baraca class session in the First Baptist church Sunday morning totaled 195, just five short of the goal of 200, which has been set for Easter Sunday.

The class has been divided into two sides—the Blues, in charge of George Pickens, and the Reds, captained by Charles Pomeroy. The Blue side had 100 members out Sunday, the Reds 95.

This class, said to be the largest in the Ohio Valley, is taught by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the church.

LONGO-STRADA AWAIT TRIAL

Will Face Court on Charges of First Degree Murder.

No date has been determined upon for the trial of Fred Longo and Dominick Strada, Italians, of Canton, who are held in the county jail at Lisbon on charges of first degree murder, in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Vincenzio Desmonia, at her home in Broadway on Sunday night, February 22.

Mrs. Desmonia was shot down in the doorway of her residence after she had responded to a knock on the door. The shooting occurred several hours after Rocco Benvento, a resident of Broadway, had been slain in Third street.

Both a revolver and a shotgun, it is said, were used by Mrs. Desmonia's assailants. One of the weapons, it is claimed, was fired from an automobile, drawn up along the curbstone directly in front of the door of the Desmonia residence.

Strada and Longo were brought to Wellsville from Lisbon where they had been arrested following the shooting.

James Gagliardi, sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary for the slaying of Benvento, after a jury in the case had returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, with a recommendation of mercy, is still a prisoner in the county jail at Lisbon, awaiting court action on the defense counsel's motion for a new trial.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1925.

Municipal Political Campaign

The 1925 campaign for municipal offices has been formally opened with the announcement by Mayor Charles Brown, now serving his first term, that he will seek re-nomination on the Republican ticket at the primaries on Tuesday, August 11.

The mayor's declaration of candidacy is expected to be followed by other entries. Reports indicate that the political bee is buzzing around others who have their eyes on the mayoralty as well as other offices whose incumbents must appeal to the people for support at the polls.

Under the Ohio election laws, prospective candidates must throw their hats into the ring for the municipal fight within 60 days from the date of the election. Declarations, signed by at least five electors, must be filed with the Columbiana county board of deputy supervisors of elections not later than June 12.

No doubt the final action on the Emmons bill providing for a municipal court in East Liverpool, will be a factor in determining the decision of reported candidates for the mayoralty. If the measure, which was vetoed last week by Gov. Donahey, is passed over the state executive's head, it is not improbable the number of candidates for the mayor's place will be decreased. For enactment of the court proposal is expected to be followed by councilmanic legislation reducing the $1,800 salary of the mayor. This should be done, for creation of the court means the executive will be relieved of police court duties which now occupy no small part of his time.

Letting Germany In

The latest proposal for European settlement looks like common sense.

Germany is tired of being an outcast, and wants to get back into the European sisterhood of powers. For that, she says, she is willing to bind herself to be good and play fair. She will acquiesce in her present eastern and western frontiers, with the possible exception of the Polish boundary, and pledge herself not to seek any change in that except by peaceful methods. She refuses to regard the Versailles treaty as the last word, but asks only a voice herself in making changes to fit new conditions.

The British government encourages this attitude, and is willing to admit Germany to the league of nations, give her the place on the league council reserved for her in the covenant, and start from there to guarantee European peace with both sides sitting at the table with all their cards face up.

France may agree to this. It seems to give her as much as she can hope to get by any other procedure. Germany, no doubt, deserves punishment; but the allies have been unable, in seven years, to devise any way of punishing her severely without punishing themselves at the same time.

The British rejection of "one-sided pacts directly pointed at Germany" seems logical, after all the fruitless efforts based on such pacts. Welcoming Germany to a common council table is worth trying, if only as a new experiment. At the worst, it is better to have a suspected enemy where you can watch him. If France can see things in this light, the outlook for world peace will be more rosy.

Germany Abolishes Debt

The "valorization" of the German national debt is an interesting procedure. The German government is refinancing its internal debt at 5 cents on the dollar. War and pre-war bonds with a face value of 70,000,000,000 gold marks will be called in and in exchange for them the holders will be given bonds amounting to 3,500,000,000 gold marks. Thus Germany reduces her national debt, exclusive of reparations, at one stroke from about $17,000,000,000 to less than $1,000,000,000.

It amounts to stupendous robbery of the German people and of the foreign sypmathizers, including many Americans, who bought the German securities in good faith. Most of the bonds, it is true, are now held by speculators; wherefore there is a slight concession given to those who have held their bonds more than five years. But the original investors were moved to sell their holdings only after deliberate inflation of German currency had already made all government paper of little value. The present revaluation of bonds is of a piece with the original wrecking of German money values.

Thus Germany has shifted the cost of the war, as far as national loans are concerned, to those who lent Germany the money to carry on the war. It is hard on them. But for that very reason, the ultimate effect may be considered good. It will be many a year before Germans lend their government money to finance another war.

French Capital Flees

French capitalists are shipping their capital to neighboring countries. Authorities in Valenciennes, near the Belgian border, say that nearly three billion francs have been exported from that city to Belgium in the last three months. There is systematic encouragement of such transfers in Belgium, and the French glady avail themselves of the privilege.

That French capital is fleeing from taxation. The government has been planning heavier taxes lately, to save the value of the franc and extricate the country from its perilous position of near bankruptcy. It has even talked of capital levies. So far, the French have not paid as heavy taxes as the other allies, and tax-paying even to a moderate degree goes much against the grain of the thrifty French folk.

This exportation of capital, however, is precisely what the French criticised the Germans so severely for, a little while ago. It is unlikely that they will get out of the hole until they face the situation as honesty as the British did from the first, and as the Germans have now begun to do.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

CHERBOURG, April 6. — Back, through picturesque Normandy again, to Cherbourg. Always the same picture—peasants in the fields, the big white Norman horses pulling carts. And the inevitable slashing shower. Scarcely ever a rainless day in Normandy.

The Olympic was at anchor outside the breakwater and the porter pirates descended upon us at the boat train. I was determined not to give another tip in France. Porters are paid by the steamship companies for the work they do. Mine was a scarred and scowling brigand.

He stood waiting with hand extended after his casual service. When he became insistent I suggested a retreat for him that would take him out of the Cherbourg chill. He blasphemed me in French and I dittoed in English—winning fair honors. For once I felt rather iron willed.

We waited in the foggy dampness on the tender while the usual custom haggling was taking place. Ancient Cherbourg was etched in the falling dusk. It reeks of antiquity. The people seem listless and even the dogs were having their woe.

And speaking of dogs, there is a gentle-eyed pointer with a collection box strapped to his back that meets all steamers. The animal collects—or is supposed to—for the unfortunate animals of Cherbourgh. I suspect it is another gesture in French petty graft.

Every hotel servant in Paris comes to you with a subscription blank for some charity which I am told goes mostly in their own pockets. France has a blind spot for this petty graft. It would not be interested in a law to stop gouging tourists. That is the national sport.

It was a mighty relief to step up the gang plank to the Olympic. I have crossed in—you do not cross "on" a steamer from Europe but "in"—her before. She is swift and sturdy and somehow manages usually to have a gay and sporty passenger list.

My stateroom was amidships and the pitch of the boat caused a mighty creaking—like that of a giant shoe. I had the feeling of a slate pencil being pulled through my teeth. The purser came to the rescue and gave me a creakless room.

I notice among the passenger list Sir E. Mackay Edgar and man servant and Mr. Samuel Goldwyn and man servant. It would be appropriate for two other passengers to be listed: Mrs. O. O. McIntyre and man servant.

Royalty is represented by Prince Antoine Bibesco. And Count Verchere Uchida. Zoology is represented by a Mr. Wolff, Miss Baer, Mr. Fox, Mrs. Lyon and Mr. Lopperd.

A gaudy printed card was slipped under my door in the midst of my home-going happiness reading: "Apply at once to Mr. M. Fothergill on deck C for your return voyage." I wrote on the reverse side: "Don't be silly. Am not returning." And sent it back.

I have lost so many hats and caps from promenade decks that I took the precaution to journey to the Latin Quarter before leaving Paris to purchase a black tam worn by the Basque students. It would require a typhoon to lift it off. I suppose I will be mistaken for a poet or painter and already I find myself growing a little sad-eyed and temperamental.

I have found quite a philosopher in a quaint and venerable night stewart. He is broken and bent. "In drinking to the health of others," he said, "I lost my own."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By Michael F. Dacey.

DENVER, April 6.—KOAS's international radio audience will have their first opportunity early in May to hear Denver's far famed Music Week Celebration and annual Spring Festival of more than 500 events.

Musical organizations of 27 western cities will be represented, according to Freeman H. Talbot, executive director of the Denver Music Week Association. Included on the program will be the opera, "Erminie," an evening of dancing by students of Denver dancing schools, competitive choral singing by senior choruses, an afternoon concert for advanced students, a chorus of 4,000 school children, and a novelty attraction of ten concert grand pianos which will be played at once.

More than 40 instrumental bands and orchestras will be heard by listening in on KOA, in addition to 50 choruses and 60 church choirs.

Other features during the week include community singing in factories, stores, churches and among neighborhood groups, competitive singing by service clubs and educational lectures on musical topics.

Radio is rapidly stimulating a universal understanding and sympathy in religion, political economy, language, morals and arts, in the estimation of Talbot, who is also director of programs and studio manager of KOA.

"If there was ever a cosmopolitan audience in the history of the world, it is the unseen audience of radio," he declared. "Outstanding achievements of radio, from the standpoint of civilization, are a breaking down, so-called, of an exclusiveness among humans." Bankers and janiters, he commented, merchants and executives, electrical workers and students are daily listening to the same broadcasts in company with elevator boys and invalids, millers, miners, factory workers, farmers and campers. To these and others radio has brought new lines of thought—new ideas for the mind to feed upon.

"Radio's cosmopolitan audience — the radio fraternity itself—embraces sailors, lighthouse keepers and many globe trotters," Talbot said.

"Countless thousands who hear KOA never saw a stage coach, an Indian, an eagle, ice or frost or an oil well," Talbot declared. "Many living in the prairie states never had a glimpse of a mountain peak or perpetual snow. 'Timberline' to them is a reading word and nothing more.

"Companionship among people, sympathy among people, and an exchange of ideas and associations are the result of radio.

"Across vast expanses of desert, mountain tracts, desolate islands and bodies of water, listeners to radio are gathering new information; they are feeling the pulse of a different life; a new culture; they are hearing strange voices and strange people. To the city dweller, who is surrounded by noise and crowds of a great metropolis, radio brings a secluded but intimate association with far-off speakers and singers, clergymen and actors. Through it, too, persons on the outpost of civilization feel in intimate touch with the world. The participate in the bustle and rush of the city they long to visit and altogether know the pulse of metropolitan life."

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Memorial Bridge.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 6.—More than three-quarters of a century ago President Andrew Jackson dreamed of the day when the Potomac river, the stream that is to Washington what the Tiber was to Rome, would be spanned by a noble bridge which would stand through the centuries as a magnificent symbol of the grandeur of the Republic.

In a Fourth of July address in 1851 Daniel Webster projected a similar dream. He saw rising on the axis of the Capital across the Potomac, a structure of "ever-enduring granite, symbolical of the firmly established Union of the North and the South."

Now the dream of Jackson and Webster is to come true. In the Arlington Memorial bridge, on which work was begun on March 5, the day after the Sixty-Eighth congress expired, Washington is to have another great national monument which for patriotic appeal and architectural splendor will vie with the Washington Monument and the Lincoln memorial.

The bridge itself is to be only a part of an improvement scheme which includes the environs of the Lincoln Memorial and the Arlington cemetery. As a whole it constitutes one of the most gigantic undertakings of this kind ever authorized by congress. President Calvin Coolidge, Vice President Charles G. Dawes and Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the next house are members of the commission which recommended the project and which is to supervise construction.

The bridge will span the Potomac over a direct line from the Lincoln Memorial to the Lee Mansion in Arlington. According to the present estimates of the designing engineers, it will cost the government $14 750,000 to complete it and the work will take ten years. When it is finished Washington will have a great entrance which will be comparable to what Rome had in the Appian Way over which the emperors used to march in triumph.

So quietly were the plans for the bridge worked out and presented to congress for action at the last session that the public at large did not realize that more was contemplated than simply a large bridge across the Potomac and its immediate approaches. As a matter of fact, the undertaking has several features which taken together will make it the greatest single memorial project launched by any nation in recent times.

A Great National Memorial.

It supplements and completes the Lincoln Memorial in finishing the landscape in its vicinity and it carries the Mall treatment of the Capital as conceived by George Washington and Major L'Enfant across the Potomac to Arlington and up to the very portico of the Lee Mansion. Thus it creates one huge national monument combining the Lincoln Memorial, the bridge itself and the National cemetery.

Provision is made in the estimates for the widening of the streets leading to the Lincoln Memorial and to a magnificent plaza from which the bridge will debouch. There is a compelling patriotic motive in the conception of a broad boulevard leading from the Capitol by way of the Lincoln Memorial and on across a dignified bridge as a route for the Nation's fallen heroes to their resting place on the slopes of Arlington in the shadow of the Virginia hills.

There is a third great motive in the complete plan and that is the construction of a magnificent entrance into the National Capital from Virginia for the Lee Highway which spans the continent from Los Angeles to Washington. This great highway now crosses the Potomac by the Francis Scott Key bridge further up the stream, a circuitous, much congested and much less beautiful route than the proposed one across the Memorial Bridge.

Finally and perhaps more important than any of the others, the bridge between "Lincoln and Lee" will constitute a lasting symbol of the binding together of North and South in one indivisible Union.

As the traveller approaches Washington over the brow of Arlington Heights in Fort Meyer, there will burst on his view a panorama that has few equals in the world and one which can not fail to provoke inspiration, loyalty and devotion to country, as Jackson and Webster hoped when they dreamed their dreams.

The bridge will consist of nine spans, a draw span in the center, flanked on

Municipal Political Campaign

The 1925 campaign for municipal offices has been formally opened with the announcement by Mayor Charles Brown, now serving his first term, that he will seek re-nomination on the Republican ticket at the primaries on Tuesday, August 11.

The mayor's declaration of candidacy is expected to be followed by other entries. Reports indicate that the political bee is buzzing around others who have their eyes on the mayoralty as well as other offices whose incumbents must appeal to the people for support at the polls.

Under the Ohio election laws, prospective candidates must throw their hats into the ring for the municipal fight within 60 days from the date of the election. Declarations, signed by at least five electors, must be filed with the Columbiana county board of deputy supervisors of elections not later than June 12.

No doubt the final action on the Emmons bill providing for a municipal court in East Liverpool, will be a factor in determining the decision of reported candidates for the mayoralty. If the measure, which was vetoed last week by Gov. Donahey, is passed over the state executive's head, it is not improbable the number of candidates for the mayor's place will be decreased. For enactment of the court proposal is expected to be followed by councilmanic legislation reducing the $1,800 salary of the mayor. This should be done, for creation of the court means the executive will be relieved of police court duties which now occupy no small part of his time.

Letting Germany In

The latest proposal for European settlement looks like common sense.

Germany is tired of being an outcast, and wants to get back into the European sisterhood of powers. For that, she says, she is willing to bind herself to be good and play fair. She will acquiesce in her present eastern and western frontiers, with the possible exception of the Polish boundary, and pledge herself not to seek any change in that except by peaceful methods. She refuses to regard the Versailles treaty as the last word, but asks only a voice herself in making changes to fit new conditions.

The British government encourages this attitude, and is willing to admit Germany to the league of nations, give her the place on the league council reserved for her in the covenant, and start from there to guarantee European peace with both sides sitting at the table with all their cards face up.

France may agree to this. It seems to give her as much as she can hope to get by any other procedure. Germany, no doubt, deserves punishment; but the allies have been unable, in seven years, to devise any way of punishing her severely without punishing themselves at the same time.

The British rejection of "one-sided pacts directly pointed at Germany" seems logical, after all the fruitless efforts based on such pacts. Welcoming Germany to a common council table is worth trying, if only as a new experiment. At the worst, it is better to have a suspected enemy where you can watch him. If France can see things in this light, the outlook for world peace will be more rosy.

Germany Abolishes Debt

The "valorization" of the German national debt is an interesting procedure. The German government is refinancing its internal debt at 5 cents on the dollar. War and pre-war bonds with a face value of 70,000,000,000 gold marks will be called in and in exchange for them the holders will be given bonds amounting to 3,500,000,000 gold marks. Thus Germany reduces her national debt, exclusive of reparations, at one stroke from about $17,000,000,000 to less than $1,000,000,000.

It amounts to stupendous robbery of the German people and of the foreign sypmathizers, including many Americans, who bought the German securities in good faith. Most of the bonds, it is true, are now held by speculators; wherefore there is a slight concession given to those who have held their bonds more than five years. But the original investors were moved to sell their holdings only after deliberate inflation of German currency had already made all government paper of little value. The present revaluation of bonds is of a piece with the original wrecking of German money values.

Thus Germany has shifted the cost of the war, as far as national loans are concerned, to those who lent Germany the money to carry on the war. It is hard on them. But for that very reason, the ultimate effect may be considered good. It will be many a year before Germans lend their government money to finance another war.

French Capital Flees

French capitalists are shipping their capital to neighboring countries. Authorities in Valenciennes, near the Belgian border, say that nearly three billion francs have been exported from that city to Belgium in the last three months. There is systematic encouragement of such transfers in Belgium, and the French glady avail themselves of the privilege.

That French capital is fleeing from taxation. The government has been planning heavier taxes lately, to save the value of the franc and extricate the country from its perilous position of near bankruptcy. It has even talked of capital levies. So far, the French have not paid as heavy taxes as the other allies, and tax-paying even to a moderate degree goes much against the grain of the thrifty French folk.

This exportation of capital, however, is precisely what the French criticised the Germans so severely for, a little while ago. It is unlikely that they will get out of the hole until they face the situation as honesty as the British did from the first, and as the Germans have now begun to do.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

CHERBOURG, April 6. — Back, through picturesque Normandy again, to Cherbourg. Always the same picture—peasants in the fields, the big white Norman horses pulling carts. And the inevitable slashing shower. Scarcely ever a rainless day in Normandy.

The Olympic was at anchor outside the breakwater and the porter pirates descended upon us at the boat train. I was determined not to give another tip in France. Porters are paid by the steamship companies for the work they do. Mine was a scarred and scowling brigand.

He stood waiting with hand extended after his casual service. When he became insistent I suggested a retreat for him that would take him out of the Cherbourg chill. He blasphemed me in French and I dittoed in English—winning fair honors. For once I felt rather iron willed.

We waited in the foggy dampness on the tender while the usual custom haggling was taking place. Ancient Cherbourg was etched in the falling dusk. It reeks of antiquity. The people seem listless and even the dogs were having their woe.

And speaking of dogs, there is a gentle-eyed pointer with a collection box strapped to his back that meets all steamers. The animal collects—or is supposed to—for the unfortunate animals of Cherbourgh. I suspect it is another gesture in French petty graft.

Every hotel servant in Paris comes to you with a subscription blank for some charity which I am told goes mostly in their own pockets. France has a blind spot for this petty graft. It would not be interested in a law to stop gouging tourists. That is the national sport.

It was a mighty relief to step up the gang plank to the Olympic. I have crossed in—you do not cross "on" a steamer from Europe but "in"—her before. She is swift and sturdy and somehow manages usually to have a gay and sporty passenger list.

My stateroom was amidships and the pitch of the boat caused a mighty creaking—like that of a giant shoe. I had the feeling of a slate pencil being pulled through my teeth. The purser came to the rescue and gave me a creakless room.

COUNCIL MEET HERE TONIGHT

Proposal to Erect New City Building May be Discussed.

Council will meet in regular session this evening in the municipal building. Number of matters will be considered.

Question of erecting a new city building, which proposition was endorsed at a recent meeting of the Chester Volunteer fire department will likely be discussed. The plan, sponsored by the firemen, calls for the erection of a building suitable for housing the various city offices and an auditorium.

Funds to meet the cost would be provided under the proposal by money received from the sale of bonds, provided the electors of the city expressed themselves favorably at the ballot box.

HIGH TEAM WINS OPENING CLASH

Chester high school baseball team opened the season here Saturday afternoon by defeating Newell high at Rock Springs park, score 12 to 2. The local tossers showed up in good form and outplayed their county opponents in all departments. Large crowd witnessed the contest.

Simcox, Johnston and Bartley took turns in the box and held their opponents to a few scattered bingles, while the opposing hurlers were touched up at a lively clip. De Long was on the receiving end and did a neat job of backstopping.

Contests will be arranged with the various schools of the county and possibly some of the scholastic teams of Columbiana county.

COMMON SENSE IN SMALL DOSES

He bet a friend
He could eat the most;
He won the bet—
Gave up the ghost

The earliest possible examination of every tumor or skin lesion would prevent many a cancer fatality.

Perhaps it's well and quite a blessing
That we indulge in a lot of guessing
About the nature of our ills;
If we'd conduct investigations,
With scientific explanations,
They'd sell fewer patent pills.

Food handlers who, knowingly, sell unwholesome foods are guilty of a greater crime than burglary.

With temples athrob,
What kind of man is he,
Who takes not a rest
Because he's too busy?
He may be the "mustard"
With the bulls and the bears
But when he goes busted—
Why, nobody cares.

There's this about grade crossing accidents, motorists seem willing enough to meet the engineer half

And so it seems, in days of old,
The victim of a common cold
Did not know that sneezing throws
A million, dire microbic foes.
He walked the streets wheree'er
he pleased,
Murdered people, when he sneezed,
But that was 'fore the doctors taught
That from their victims colds are caught.

Many have lost their lives because their would-be rescuers lost their heads.

Plan to Reorganize Swedish Defense is Framed by Laborites

STOCKHOLM, April.—Reorganization of the defense of Sweden has been proposed to the Rigsdag by the Labor government.

The Laborites are anxious to reduce public expenditures and claim that one of the easiet methods of doing this is to reduce expenditures upon the national defences, without lowering the efficiency of these defences.

The reduction in the defences would not be immediate, but would be made over a prolonged period at the end of which the annual expenditures for which the annual expenditures for defence would be 96,000,000 kroner, as compared with 181,500,000 in 1914.

The reduced expenditures would apply chiefly to the army, and the navy would be kept practically as it is at present.

Textile manufacturing in Czecsoslovakia is, having a spurt, one cotton-spinning mill having to triple its number of spindles, another that is being established having to double its output, while a silk mill is being started and other mills are being enlarged.

What Pretty Girl Did For Sick Stomach

Miss E. Rich of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I don't know what the cause was, but every few days my stomach would feel all bloated up with gas, my appetite was poor and I felt sick to my stomach—to say nothing of headaches.

"I never thought of using Carter's Little Liver Pills until nothing seemed to help. After using Carter's I felt relieved at once—and now as soon as my stomach 'talks' back I answer with Carter's and have the last word."

What Pretty Girl Did For Sick Stomach

Miss E. Rich of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I don't know what the cause was, but every few days my stomach would feel all bloated up with gas, my appetite was poor and I felt sick to my stomach—to say nothing of headaches.

"I never thought of using Carter's Little Liver Pills until nothing seemed to help. After using Carter's I felt relieved at once—and now as soon as my stomach 'talks' back I answer with Carter's and have the last word."

each side by four masonry spans. It will have a total length of 2,138 feet between the terminal plyons or towers. Over all, the width will be ninety feet which after allowing for a fifteen foot sidewalk on each side will give sixty feet of roadway. This will be wide enough to permit of six lanes of automobile traffic moving across the bridge simultaneously. There is no bridge in America and probably none in the world that will be able to compete in beauty or in capacity for traffic with the Memorial Bridge.

Draw Span May Be Replaced.

The commission hesitated before deciding to have a draw span in the center, in view of the small amount of shipping going beyond this section of the Potomac, and it is hoped that some time in the future this span will be replaced by a masonry span similar to the others. In order that the center span shall not mar the symmetry of the bridge, all operating machinery for operating it, including the fender houses and the look-out stations, are to be kept entirely below the bridge and out of sight.

To assure that the appearance of the bridge may be in harmony with the Lincoln Memorial, its arches have been kept as simple and severe as possible with significant pieces of sculpture of the highest quality of design provide its main beauty. The granite to be used in construction will harmonize completely with the Colorado Yule marble used in the Lincoln Memorial and at a distance will resemble marble. Of the $14,750,000 to be expended under the congressional authorization only $7,250,000 is to be spent on the bridge itself. The remainder of the appropriation is to be spent on the beautifying of the approaches on the Lincoln Memorial side and on the Arlington side. One of the features of the construction will be two tall towers at the Washington entrance to the bridge, and placed 500 feet from the Lincoln Memorial. These will be forty feet in height and are to be adorned with sculptured groups and appropriate inscriptions, surmounted by eagles, symbolic of the United States of America. There will also be a magnificent water gate leading from the bridge and plazar to the river drive. The water gate will consist of a monumental terrace and a flight of steps of great width flanked on each side by a series of sculptured lions adding beauty and dignity to the approach of the Lincoln Memorial.

Columbia Island which is composed of ground retrieved from the river will be the Virginia treminal of the bridge. At this end will be another huge plaza with appropriate adornment, in a measure supplemental to the Lincoln Memorial on the Washington side. Two stately columns will be erected here to correspond with the towers on the other side. They will be so placed that they will not interfere with the view of the Lincoln Memorial from the Le Mansion.

These columns symbolize, the one the North, the other the South. They are surmounted by statues of Victory, the stylobates or bases whence they rise offering surface suitable for decorations, base-reliefs, and inscriptions. The columns are 168 feet high or practically of the same height as the Colonne de Juillet in Paris.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"Perhaps is will be best." M. de Rivarol took up a paper. "Before going further, I have to observe that M. de Cussy has exceeded his instructions in admitting you to one-fifth of the prizes taken."

"That is a matter between yourself and M. de Cussy, my general."

"Oh, no. It is a matter between myself and you."

"Your pardon, my general. The articles are signed. So far as we are concerned, the matter is closed."

"But, nom de Dieu! It is your concern, I suppose, that we cannot award you more than one tenth share."

"You are quite certain of that, M. le Baron; that you cannot?"

"I am quite certain that I will not."

"In that case," said Blood, "it but remains for me to present my little account for our disbursement, and to fix the sum at which we should be compensated for our loss of time and derangement in coming hither. That settled, we can part friends, M. le Baron. No harm has been done."

"What the devil do you mean?"

"Is it possible that I am obscure? My French, perhaps, is not of the purest, but—"

"Oh, your French is fluent enough; too fluent at moments, if I may permit myself the observation. Now, look you here, M. le Filibustier, you have accepted service of the King of France, you and your men. The first obligation of an officer is obedience. You are not to conceive yourselves, as you appear to be doing, my allies in the enterprises I have in view, but my subordinates. In me you behold a commander to lead you, not a companion or an equal."

"My superior officer! You! Why, you are just a common pirate."

"Oh, be sure that I understand," Captain Blood laughed. He was recovering his normal self amazingly under the inspiring stimulus of conflict. The only thing that marred his enjoyment was the reflection that he had not shaved. "I forget nothing, I assure you, my general. I do not forget, for instance, as you appear to be doing, that the articles we signed are the condition of our service; and the articles provide that we receive one-fifth share. Refuse us that, and you cancel the articles; cancel the articles and you cancel our services with them. From that moment we cease to have the honor to hold rank in the navies of the King of France."

Captain Blood rose, his officers rose with him. Captain Blood bowed.

"M. le Baron!" said he.

"You shall be advised of my resolve," M. le Baron retorted.

That resolve proved to Captain Blood's way next official business brought these two together. Wolverstone was the cause of Captain Blood hunting audience with the admiral while he sat at dinner. The Old Wolf had retorted with his ready fist a mocking Frenchman's remarks and had been flung in jail. M. de Rivarol bade his visitor be admitted.

There entered now into his presence a spruce and modish gentleman, dressed with care and somber richness in black and silver, his swarthy, clear-cut face scrupulously shaven, his long black hair in ringlets that fell to a collar of fine point. In his right hand the gentleman carried a broad black hat with a scarlet ostrich plume, in his left hand an ebony cane. His stockings were of silk, a bunch of ribbons masked his garters and the black rosettes on his shoes were finely edged with gold.

"Your people have arrested the wrong man, M. de Rivarol," Captain Blood began. "Instead of the French officer, who used the grossest provocation, they have arrested Captain Wolverstone. It is a matter which I beg you to reverse without delay."

"Sir, you—you are insolent! But of insolence that is intolerable!"

"M. le Baron, you waste words. Justice is justice in the New World as in the Old. That justice I invite you, with submission, to administer."

"With submission?" snorted the baron in furious scorn.

"At the same time I will remind M. le Baron that my buccaneers number 800; your troops 500; and M. de Cussy will inform you of the interesting fact that any one buccaneer is equal in action to at least three soldiers of the line."

"You will do me the favor to wait in the ante-room, M. le Capitaine. I desire a word with M. de Cussy."

When the door had closed, the baron loosed his fury upon the head of M. de Cussy.

"So, these are the men you have enlisted in the King's service, the men who are to serve under me! What explanations do you offer me, M. de Cussy? I warn you that I am not pleased with you. I am, in fact, as you may perceive, exceedingly angry."

The Governor seemed to shed his chubbiness. He drew himself stiffly erect.

"M. le Baron, it was folly to have arrested the buccaneer captain. It would be madness to persist. We have not the forces to meet force."

M. de Rivarol condescended to be mollified. It was necessary that he should save his face.

"Very well," he said. "Be so good as to recall this Captain Blood."

The Captain came in, assured and very dignified. M. de Rivarol found him detestable; but dissembled it.

"M. le Capitaine, I have taken counsel with M. le Gouverneur. From what he tells me, it is possible that a mistake has been committed. Your captain shall be released."

Captain Blood bowed.

"And now, sir, you have had the night for reflection in this matter of the articles. Am I to understand that you confirm or that you repudiate them?"

"I have considered that, too," he announced. "And whilst my opinion remains unaltered, I must confess that since M. de Cussy has pledged us, it is for us to fulfill the pledges. The articles are confirmed, sir."

Blood and his officers were summoned a week later to a council which sat to determine their operations against Spain. M. de Rivarol laid before them a project for a raid upon the wealthy Spanish town of Cartagena, which was rich in gold loot. Captain Blood professed astonishment. Sourly invited by M. de Rivarol to state his grounds for it, he did so with the utmost frankness.

"You mean, sir, that we are to sail across the Caribbean on an adventurous expedition, neglecting that which lies here at our very door. In our absence, a Spanish invasion of French Hispaniola is possible. If we begin by reducing the Spaniards here, that possibility will be removed. We shall have added to the Crown of France the most coveted possession in the West Indies."

Captain Blood laughed outright. He had suddenly read the Baron's mind. M. de Rivarol, intrigued by his mirth, scowled upon him disapprovingly.

"Why do you laugh, monsieur?"

"Because I discover here an irony that is supremely droll. You, M. le Baron, General of the King's Armies by Land and Sea in America, propose an enterprise of a purely buccaneering character; whilst I, the buccaneer, am urging one that is more concerned with upholding the honor of France. You perceive how droll it is."

"M. le filibuster," cried Rivarol in a thick voice, "it seems that I must again remind you that I am your superior officer."

"My superior officer! You! Why, you are just a common pirate! M. le Baron, I have the honor to wish you good-day."

He stalked out, and his three captains, although they thought him mad—rolled after him in loyal silence.

Nevertheless, it was to Cartagena that they sailed in the middle of March. Volunteers and negroes had brought up the forces directly under M. de Rivarol to twelve hundred men. With these he thought he could keep the buccaneer contingent in order and submissive.

They made up an imposing fleet, led by M. de Rivarol's flagship, the Victorieuse, a mighty vessel of eighty guns. Each of the four other French ships was at least as powerful as Blood's Arabella, which was of forty guns. Followed the lesser buccaneer vessels, the Elizabeth, Lachesis, and Atropos, and a dozen frigates laden with stores, besides canoes and small craft in tow.

A Romance of the Spanish Main

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"Perhaps is will be best." M. de Rivarol took up a paper. "Before going further, I have to observe that M. de Cussy has exceeded his instructions in admitting you to one-fifth of the prizes taken."

"That is a matter between yourself and M. de Cussy, my general."

"Oh, no. It is a matter between myself and you."

"Your pardon, my general. The articles are signed. So far as we are concerned, the matter is closed."

"But, nom de Dieu! It is your concern, I suppose, that we cannot award you more than one tenth share."

"You are quite certain of that, M. le Baron; that you cannot?"

"I am quite certain that I will not."

"In that case," said Blood, "it but remains for me to present my little account for our disbursement, and to fix the sum at which we should be compensated for our loss of time and derangement in coming hither. That settled, we can part friends, M. le Baron. No harm has been done."

"What the devil do you mean?"

"Is it possible that I am obscure? My French, perhaps, is not of the purest, but—"

"Oh, your French is fluent enough; too fluent at moments, if I may permit myself the observation. Now, look you here, M. le Filibustier, you have accepted service of the King of France, you and your men. The first obligation of an officer is obedience. You are not to conceive yourselves, as you appear to be doing, my allies in the enterprises I have in view, but my subordinates. In me you behold a commander to lead you, not a companion or an equal."

"Oh, be sure that I understand," Captain Blood laughed. He was recovering his normal self amazingly under the inspiring stimulus of conflict. The only thing that marred his enjoyment was the reflection that he had not shaved. "I forget nothing, I assure you, my general. I do not forget, for instance, as you appear to be doing, that the articles we signed are the condition of our service; and the articles provide that we receive one-fifth share. Refuse us that, and you cancel the articles; cancel the articles and you cancel our services with them. From that moment we cease to have the honor to hold rank in the navies of the King of France."

Captain Blood rose, his officers rose with him. Captain Blood bowed.

"M. le Baron!" said he.

"You shall be advised of my resolve," M. le Baron retorted.

That resolve proved to Captain Blood's way next official business brought these two together. Wolverstone was the cause of Captain Blood hunting audience with the admiral while he sat at dinner. The Old Wolf had retorted with his ready fist a mocking Frenchman's remarks and had been flung in jail. M. de Rivarol bade his visitor be admitted.

There entered now into his presence a spruce and modish gentleman, dressed with care and somber richness in black and silver, his swarthy, clear-cut face scrupulously shaven, his long black hair in ringlets that fell to a collar of fine point. In his right hand the gentleman carried a broad black hat with a scarlet ostrich plume, in his left hand an ebony cane. His stockings were of silk, a bunch of ribbons masked his garters and the black rosettes on his shoes were finely edged with gold.

"Your people have arrested the wrong man, M. de Rivarol," Captain Blood began. "Instead of the French officer, who used the grossest provocation, they have arrested Captain Wolverstone. It is a matter which I beg you to reverse without delay."

"Sir, you—you are insolent! But of insolence that is intolerable!"

"M. le Baron, you waste words. Justice is justice in the New World as in the Old. That justice I invite you, with submission, to administer."

"With submission?" snorted the baron in furious scorn.

"At the same time I will remind M. le Baron that my buccaneers number 800; your troops 500; and M. de Cussy will inform you of the interesting fact that any one buccaneer is equal in action to at least three soldiers of the line."

"You will do me the favor to wait in the ante-room, M. le Capitaine. I desire a word with M. de Cussy."

When the door had closed, the baron loosed his fury upon the head of M. de Cussy.

"So, these are the men you have enlisted in the King's service, the men who are to serve under me! What explanations do you offer me, M. de Cussy? I warn you that I am not pleased with you. I am, in fact, as you may perceive, exceedingly angry."

The Governor seemed to shed his chubbiness. He drew himself stiffly erect.

"M. le Baron, it was folly to have arrested the buccaneer captain. It would be madness to persist. We have not the forces to meet force."

M. de Rivarol condescended to be mollified. It was necessary that he should save his face.

"Very well," he said. "Be so good as to recall this Captain Blood."

The Captain came in, assured and very dignified. M. de Rivarol found him detestable; but dissembled it.

"M. le Capitaine, I have taken counsel with M. le Gouverneur. From what he tells me, it is possible that a mistake has been committed. Your captain shall be released."

Captain Blood bowed.

"And now, sir, you have had the night for reflection in this matter of the articles. Am I to understand that you confirm or that you repudiate them?"

"I have considered that, too," he announced. "And whilst my opinion remains unaltered, I must confess that since M. de Cussy has pledged us, it is for us to fulfill the pledges. The articles are confirmed, sir."

Blood and his officers were summoned a week later to a council which sat to determine their operations against Spain. M. de Rivarol laid before them a project for a raid upon the wealthy Spanish town of Cartagena, which was rich in gold loot. Captain Blood professed astonishment. Sourly invited by M. de Rivarol to state his grounds for it, he did so with the utmost frankness.

"You mean, sir, that we are to sail across the Caribbean on an adventurous expedition, neglecting that which lies here at our very door. In our absence, a Spanish invasion of French Hispaniola is possible. If we begin by reducing the Spaniards here, that possibility will be removed. We shall have added to the Crown of France the most coveted possession in the West Indies."

Captain Blood laughed outright. He had suddenly read the Baron's mind. M. de Rivarol, intrigued by his mirth, scowled upon him disapprovingly.

"Why do you laugh, monsieur?"

"Because I discover here an irony that is supremely droll. You, M. le Baron, General of the King's Armies by Land and Sea in America, propose an enterprise of a purely buccaneering character; whilst I, the buccaneer, am urging one that is more concerned with upholding the honor of France. You perceive how droll it is."

"M. le filibuster," cried Rivarol in a thick voice, "it seems that I must again remind you that I am your superior officer."

"My superior officer! You! Why, you are just a common pirate! M. le Baron, I have the honor to wish you good-day."

He stalked out, and his three captains, although they thought him mad—rolled after him in loyal silence.

Nevertheless, it was to Cartagena that they sailed in the middle of March. Volunteers and negroes had brought up the forces directly under M. de Rivarol to twelve hundred men. With these he thought he could keep the buccaneer contingent in order and submissive.

They made up an imposing fleet, led by M. de Rivarol's flagship, the Victorieuse, a mighty vessel of eighty guns. Each of the four other French ships was at least as powerful as Blood's Arabella, which was of forty guns. Followed the lesser buccaneer vessels, the Elizabeth, Lachesis, and Atropos, and a dozen frigates laden with stores, besides canoes and small craft in tow.

OHIO WILL PAY CROW BOUNTY; FARM MENACE

They May Migrate and Force Extradition Proceedings.

ASSEMBLY ACTS

Two-bit Gunners Prepare for Crusade in State.

CLEVELAND, March.—While the blithe sky-lark, thanks to P. B. Shelley, sits tight as a shining example of what glory awaits all good members of the bird tribe, the traditional black crow of Ohio hangs over some farmhouse door, quoting "Nevermore!"

The raven-hued creature, whose chief claim to posterity is that he inspired some live wire distiller to name a mellow brand of whisky "Old Crow," has more today to bewail than the fact that Volstead robbed him of this distinction.

For the Ohio legislature has swept aside sentiment and threatens to make the progeny of this feathered worthy as scarce in this state as the proverbial dodo bird.

When the Legislature carries out its present plan the cross-word puzzlers will wrack their brains for a word of this description:

A four-letter word beginning with a "c" and ending with a "w," meaning two bits.

Bounty for Crows.

The answer, of course, will be "crow," for the solons have provided a bounty of twenty-five cents for all heads of crows exhibited as the result of slaughter.

To the legislature this magroid flyer appears as a fowl of evil omen. He is a destroyer of eggs of worthier birds, a poacher upon cornfields, and has not a virtue to redeem him, they say. The experts in the bird department at Washington have rather sided with the crow, but at best to damn him with their customary faint praise.

Nevertheless, guns will soon be blazing away all over Ohio by those bent upon appropriating two-bit allotments of the bounty placed upon the feathered outlaw's head.

Hard Cash.

He will soon have to muffle that quaint caw which has rung through the valleys and over the hillsides of Ohio since the days of the pioneers—and before. Else he will become converted into hard cash. He will have to depopulate the farm yards and the fields.

And the farmer who has learned to love his rasping call at daybreak, despite his alleged bad habits, may wipe away a tear of sentiment as he points a gun to fatten his purse. But crows are wary of guns, and take flight even when a stick is pointed in their direction. They might, in their wisdom, migrate to Indiana, or Michigan, or Kentucky, or West Virginia.

Then the legislators will have to get extradition papers before they shoot 'em.

Anyway, the path a young crow travels these days in the Buckeye state is a dangerous one. And he'd better look out or the two-bit hunter 'll get him.

Mustaches Show On Women's Faces If Hair's Bobbed

LONDON, April — Women with shingled locks, beware! Look closely in your mirrors to see if you are growing hirsute appendages on your upper lip

An anonymous correspondent of a London newspaper says a friend of his noticed a perceptible roughness on the chins of shingled young women.

ELYRIA, April—George Sabolich, 40, Lorain, insists he has been dead 15 years and demands collection of his insurance money so that he can have a good time. Judge H. C. Wilcox sent him to the state asylum at Massillon.

This is another menu designed to help the woman who does not serve meat during the Lenten season.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Fluffy Cream Omelet — Whip some cream stiff, allowing a gill of cream to two eggs. Whip the whites of the eggs also to a stiff froth. Season the yolks and beat until light and foamy. Turn the whipped cream into the whites and mix well, add the yolks and again until all are blended. Have a liberally buttered pan very hot over a moderate fire. Pour in the mixture and cook as you would any omelet, shaking to prevent burning. Remove when set and dot with any kind of jam or jelly and serve.

Peach Cobbler — Line a deep, square pan with a good crust and finish the top by marking the edge with the tines of a fork. Take enough halves of canned peaches drained from their juice, to make a thick bottom layer and sprinkle over them some sugar unless they are cooked in a very rich syrup, and you think they are sweet enough. Put on another layer of fruit and sprinkle with more sugar. Pour over all a small tumbler of melted apple jelly. Dredge the top lightly with flour and bake in a moderate oven until the crust is a good brown. Fruit or pudding sauce or a hard sauce may be served with the cobbler.

Vegetable Loaf — One-half cup cooked green peas, one-half cup cooked string beans, one-half cup chopped cooked carrots, one-half cup chopped cooked potatoes, two cups milk, one cup bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, one egg.

Press the peas through a sieve, cut the vegetables in small pieces; combine the vegetables. Add the beaten egg to the milk. Add this to the vegtables. Put in a buttered baking dish. Cover with crumbs and bake until the crumbs are browned and the milk is absorbed. A suggestion of garlic may improve this dish. A small piece from one of the pared cloves of garlic will give a desirable zest.

Cup Pie—One cup cranberries, one cup raisins, one and a quarter cup sugar, one cup walnut meats, one cup apples. Put apples, raisins and cranberries through meat chopper (coarse blade), mix up with the sugar. Put on bottom crust and over the mixture put English walnut meats, cut fine by hand. Over all put top crust. Quite rich.

Because of the high cost of transportation of wheat and flour from the interior of Turkey, it has been found cheaper to bring those commodities from outside countries.

Clean Telephone.

Every one these days is very particular to have sanitary glasses from which to drink and avoids using the same tumbler another person has used. And yet just as great a transmitter of disease is often neglected for weeks—the telephone mouthpiece. It should be wiped out every few days with a weak solution of lysol or carbolic acid to prevent the spreading of colds, grip and other germs.

OHIO WILL PAY CROW BOUNTY; FARM MENACE

They May Migrate and Force Extradition Proceedings.

ASSEMBLY ACTS

Two-bit Gunners Prepare for Crusade in State.

CLEVELAND, March.—While the blithe sky-lark, thanks to P. B. Shelley, sits tight as a shining example of what glory awaits all good members of the bird tribe, the traditional black crow of Ohio hangs over some farmhouse door, quoting "Nevermore!"

The raven-hued creature, whose chief claim to posterity is that he inspired some live wire distiller to name a mellow brand of whisky "Old Crow," has more today to bewail than the fact that Volstead robbed him of this distinction.

For the Ohio legislature has swept aside sentiment and threatens to make the progeny of this feathered worthy as scarce in this state as the proverbial dodo bird.

When the Legislature carries out its present plan the cross-word puzzlers will wrack their brains for a word of this description:

A four-letter word beginning with a "c" and ending with a "w," meaning two bits.

Bounty for Crows.

The answer, of course, will be "crow," for the solons have provided a bounty of twenty-five cents for all heads of crows exhibited as the result of slaughter.

To the legislature this magroid flyer appears as a fowl of evil omen. He is a destroyer of eggs of worthier birds, a poacher upon cornfields, and has not a virtue to redeem him, they say. The experts in the bird department at Washington have rather sided with the crow, but at best to damn him with their customary faint praise.

Nevertheless, guns will soon be blazing away all over Ohio by those bent upon appropriating two-bit allotments of the bounty placed upon the feathered outlaw's head.

Hard Cash.

He will soon have to muffle that quaint caw which has rung through the valleys and over the hillsides of Ohio since the days of the pioneers—and before. Else he will become converted into hard cash. He will have to depopulate the farm yards and the fields.

And the farmer who has learned to love his rasping call at daybreak, despite his alleged bad habits, may wipe away a tear of sentiment as he points a gun to fatten his purse. But crows are wary of guns, and take flight even when a stick is pointed in their direction. They might, in their wisdom, migrate to Indiana, or Michigan, or Kentucky, or West Virginia.

Then the legislators will have to get extradition papers before they shoot 'em.

Anyway, the path a young crow travels these days in the Buckeye state is a dangerous one. And he'd better look out or the two-bit hunter 'll get him.

This is another menu designed to help the woman who does not serve meat during the Lenten season.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Fluffy Cream Omelet — Whip some cream stiff, allowing a gill of cream to two eggs. Whip the whites of the eggs also to a stiff froth. Season the yolks and beat until light and foamy. Turn the whipped cream into the whites and mix well, add the yolks and again until all are blended. Have a liberally buttered pan very hot over a moderate fire. Pour in the mixture and cook as you would any omelet, shaking to prevent burning. Remove when set and dot with any kind of jam or jelly and serve.

Peach Cobbler — Line a deep, square pan with a good crust and finish the top by marking the edge with the tines of a fork. Take enough halves of canned peaches drained from their juice, to make a thick bottom layer and sprinkle over them some sugar unless they are cooked in a very rich syrup, and you think they are sweet enough. Put on another layer of fruit and sprinkle with more sugar. Pour over all a small tumbler of melted apple jelly. Dredge the top lightly with flour and bake in a moderate oven until the crust is a good brown. Fruit or pudding sauce or a hard sauce may be served with the cobbler.

Vegetable Loaf — One-half cup cooked green peas, one-half cup cooked string beans, one-half cup chopped cooked carrots, one-half cup chopped cooked potatoes, two cups milk, one cup bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, one egg.

Press the peas through a sieve, cut the vegetables in small pieces; combine the vegetables. Add the beaten egg to the milk. Add this to the vegtables. Put in a buttered baking dish. Cover with crumbs and bake until the crumbs are browned and the milk is absorbed. A suggestion of garlic may improve this dish. A small piece from one of the pared cloves of garlic will give a desirable zest.

Cup Pie—One cup cranberries, one cup raisins, one and a quarter cup sugar, one cup walnut meats, one cup apples. Put apples, raisins and cranberries through meat chopper (coarse blade), mix up with the sugar. Put on bottom crust and over the mixture put English walnut meats, cut fine by hand. Over all put top crust. Quite rich.

Because of the high cost of transportation of wheat and flour from the interior of Turkey, it has been found cheaper to bring those commodities from outside countries.

Clean Telephone.

Every one these days is very particular to have sanitary glasses from which to drink and avoids using the same tumbler another person has used. And yet just as great a transmitter of disease is often neglected for weeks—the telephone mouthpiece. It should be wiped out every few days with a weak solution of lysol or carbolic acid to prevent the spreading of colds, grip and other germs.

Maryland Oystermen Fight Germ Carriers; Plan is Outlined

BALTIMORE, Md., April.—A. L. Sullivan, Satte Drug commissioner, has ordered all employees of oyster packing plants to submit to a physical examination before the next oyster season rolls around in September. The commissioner points out that the United States Health Service has established a rigid code of regulations affecting sanitation and general health conditions in places engaged in the oyster business.

It is said blod tests of employees made last February as a result of the Illinois ban on Maryland oysters, revealed that quite a number of workers were possible typhoid carriers.

Is your baby tortured by eczema or chafing?

JUST smooth gently on to the irritated skin a coating of Resinol Ointment, and see how quickly his fretful crying stops. The moment this soothing ointment touches the skin it relieves the itching and burning and hastens the healing. Does not smart when applied and its ingredients are harmless—two facts which make it specially suitable for babies.

Resinol Soap is unsurpassed for babies because it so thoroughly cleanses the skin without injuring its delicate texture. Ask your druggist about Resinol.

Gallant Swains Flee With Brides From Angry Bull

NORWICH, England, April — Five brides fled in terror and five bridegrooms had a dramatic opportunity of proving their mettle when a bullock dashed into the local justice's of the peace office just as the five couples were about to be married.

The vows were just about to be said when a tremendous clatter was heard in the outer offices, and the next instant the bullock was in the inner office, while the registrar, his assistant, and the prospective brides fled.

The husbands, evidently thinking that discretion was the better part of valor, wisely withdrew, and the marriages were celebrated later when the bullock had been captured.

Stop Sale of Ginger.

COLUMBUS, April.—Many Ohio druggists voluntarily have discontinued the sale of Jamaica ginger and so-called liquor substitutes because of their wide use as beverages, said Theo. D. Wetterstroem, secretary, Ohio State Pharmaceutical association. The situation, he declared, is becoming extremely serious. He blamed this condition, in large measure, upon stores which, while not bonafide drug stores, advertise themselves as such, it was claimed.

Is your baby tortured by eczema or chafing?

JUST smooth gently on to the irritated skin a coating of Resinol Ointment, and see how quickly his fretful crying stops. The moment this soothing ointment touches the skin it relieves the itching and burning and hastens the healing. Does not smart when applied and its ingredients are harmless—two facts which make it specially suitable for babies.

Resinol Soap is unsurpassed for babies because it so thoroughly cleanses the skin without injuring its delicate texture. Ask your druggist about Resinol.

Gallant Swains Flee With Brides From Angry Bull

NORWICH, England, April — Five brides fled in terror and five bridegrooms had a dramatic opportunity of proving their mettle when a bullock dashed into the local justice's of the peace office just as the five couples were about to be married.

The vows were just about to be said when a tremendous clatter was heard in the outer offices, and the next instant the bullock was in the inner office, while the registrar, his assistant, and the prospective brides fled.

The husbands, evidently thinking that discretion was the better part of valor, wisely withdrew, and the marriages were celebrated later when the bullock had been captured.

Stop Sale of Ginger.

COLUMBUS, April.—Many Ohio druggists voluntarily have discontinued the sale of Jamaica ginger and so-called liquor substitutes because of their wide use as beverages, said Theo. D. Wetterstroem, secretary, Ohio State Pharmaceutical association. The situation, he declared, is becoming extremely serious. He blamed this condition, in large measure, upon stores which, while not bonafide drug stores, advertise themselves as such, it was claimed.

Waits 28 Years, Goes 12,000 Miles To Shoot Brother

GENEVA—Declaring that he had waited 28 years and traveled 12,000 miles to achieve his purpose, Luca Boz, a 60-year-old Italian, gave himself up to the Lugano police after shooting his brother.

Boz declared that his brother robbed him of his inheritance when a young man, forced him to emigrate, and then married his fiancee. He learned of this shortly after his arrival in Australia, and immediately began to save up money for his journey of revenge.

Boz arrived and walked straight to the shop owned by his brother, and without a word drew a revolver and shot him.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Battleships Are Obsolete As Defense, Says Famous Inventor

Col. Lewis of Machine Gun Fame, Thinks Airplanes Supercede Land Fortifications.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April.—Colonel Isaac Newton Lewis, inventor of the Lewis machine gun and one of the foremost living authorities on modern warfare, in the first interview he has given since the begining of the current aircraft controversy, declared here recently that everiy battleship and fixed land fortification in the world is obsolete as a means of defense against airplanes.

Colonel Lewis, whose machine gun was used by practically every allied nation that engaged in the World war, declared that he had retired from active life and that he did not speak officially. But expressing his own opinion, based on his knowledge of military affairs and experience gained during the World war, he said:

"Having seen the seamy and tragic side of the last war, I sincerely hope that there will never be another war. But that hope cannot be realized, and we must prepare.

"If there is any one lesson that should be learned from the last war it is that airplanes have made fixed fortifications for coast defense obsolete. And this applies to all fixed fortifications—even to those we have on the Atlantic coast and at the Panama Canal.

"The same applies to the battleships of the present type, no matter how many millions of dollars have been spent on their construction or how big their guns may be. The development of airplanes, plus our improved means of communication, has rendered the $15,000,000 battleship an anachoronism in modern warfare.

"The two elements, to my mind, that must determine the naval defense of the future are aircraft and submarines, supplemented by speedy light armored torpedo boat chasers and destroyers.

"On land, also, the defenses will be dominated by airplanes, and these will be supplemented by machine-gun battalions and motor-mounted infantry. Field artillery, with the heavy guns mounted on movable bases, fighting emplacements for which have been prepared in advance, must take the place of all fixed armament"

Big School Saving.

BUCYRUS, April—A saving of $85,552 in the operation of Bucyrus schools from September 1, 1924, to March 1, last, is indicated in a report by Prof. Jesse L. Ward, superintendent of the schools, to the board of education. Expenses from September 1, 1923, to March 1, 1924, totaled $191,221, while expenditures from September 1, 1924, to March 1, last, aggregated $105,669, a saving of nearly 45 per cent.

So many were the congratulatory telegrams and messages sent to Queen Alexandria, of England on her 80th birthday, that two secretaries were kept busy for several days in opening them.

COLLINS STAGES STAR COMEBACK

Quits Bad Habits to Become Cobb's Leading Hurler.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—According to the American League averages for the season of 1924, which are not only official but final and conclusive, Warren "Rip" Collins, two-gun man right off the Texas range, is the best pitcher at the Spring roundup of the Detroit Tigers here. This state of affairs would be hardly credible to a man who had not seen a major league box score in two years.

Two years ago "Rip" Collins was a gent who had all the eccentricities of Rube Waddell and "Bugs" Raymond without 20 per cent of the ability that was their redeeming characteristic.

He is still far from the level of these immortals, but he has so far overcome his natural tendencies as to be the leader of what Ty Cobb terms the best pitching staff Detroit ever had. Collins' story would furnish an excellent groundwork for the celluloid idea of righteousness triumphant.

Was Not Serious.

The young man came to the Yankees' camp at Jacksonville in 1920 with excellent prospects and not the slightest idea of taking training seriously. Miller Huggins wearied of the unequal battle ultimately and sent Collins to Boston in one of the famous or infamous Yankee-Red Sox deals. He outlasted his welcome in Boston with commendable haste.

Rip always had plently of stuff, however, so Cobb decided to take a chance on him. It seemed to be a bad guess, for Collins' first year in Detroit was far from inspiring, and it seemed only a question of time until he would pass on into the outer darkness of baseball's forgotten.

The young man, however, is nobody's dumbbell. He saw the fine Spencerian script on the club house wall and went into conference with himself as the 1293 season closed. His sole asset consisted of one dependent family. His liabilities were an unfortunate lack of responsibility and the prospect that the early weeks of the 1924 season would furnish him his last chance. He proceeded to cure both in the most approved manner.

Went to Work.

Instead of loading and enjoying himself in his typical way during the off season he took a job. I use the term job advisedly. It wasn't a position. He became foreman of a gang on a Texas railroad.

It meant going to bed with the folks of the barnyard and arising in the cold gray dawn of the morning after. It meant that Collins' nocturnal pleasures were no more. It meant hard, back-breaking work in the open.

It meant that Collins, in 1924, was destined to take his legitimate place among American League pitchers. It meant, I hope, the beginning of a long and successful career in the major leagues, something that the Rip Collins of 1920-23 had no hope of attaining.

Weight Tosser Works Out Twice Every Day

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 6.—If hard work counts for anything Jim Quinlan of Huntington, W. Va., weight man on the West Virginia University varsity track squad for the past two years, is going to be more valuable to the Mountaineer team this spring than at any time during his career. Realizing that the loss of Barnum and one or two other men handy with the shot and discuss places a heavy burden on his shoulders Quinlan is working twice a day to get himself in top physical condition for the 1925 campaign.

Quinlan scored heavily in the weight events in 1923 but last spring barely earned his letter as teammates crowded him out of first positions. He seemed content to place second or third and in the four dual meets showed little of the ability that made him a prominent factor the year before.

This season Quinlan is going about his work with an entirely different attitude. He knows that he must deliver the goods in the shot and discus if the Mountaineers are to be successful in their dual meets. Consequently he has decided to do overtime work and each day follows a short session at the noon hour with another practice period between 3 and 4 o'clock.

G. R. Thomas Hangs 85 Score in Practice For Golf Tournament

G. R. Thomas, of R. Thomas & Sons Co., and president of the East Liverpool Country club, is rounding into splendid shape at Pinehurst, N. C., for the annual club championship golf tournament, according to reports received here today.

Thomas, who witnessed the North and South tournament in which McDonald Smith and Walter Hagen competed, is registering scores of 85 in his daily workouts.

Thomas, J. B. McDonald and Albert Pickin are among the East Liverpool golfers in the South. Cliff Bough recently returned from Pinehurst.

Kaplan vs. Mascart at Garden on May 5, and Villa vs. Rosenberg at Yankee Stadium is Remainder of Fistic Schedule.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, April 6. — Three world's champions of the manly art of legalized assault will risk their titles in local rings within a matter of three months, according to the rapidly maturing plans of Mr. T. Richard, the well-known promoter, and others. Listed in the order the proposed enterprises follow:

Mickey Walker vs Harry Greb at the Polo grounds June 19, with middleweight title at stake.

Louis Kid Kaplan vs Edouard Mascart at Madison Square Garden May 5 for the featherweight championship.

Pancho Villa vs Charley Phil Rosenberg at the Yankee stadium in July for bantamweight title.

In all, five world's champions and a European titleholder will be involved in the proceedings, indicating rather clearly that New York is about to emerge from the fistic doldrums. Kaplan and Marcart probably will sign for their frolic some time today, although Johnny Dundee is still a possibility with Kaplan. Our Mrs. Rickard favors John over Mascart, European champion, but doesn't care for his terms, which seems to be louder and funnier.

The Greb-Walker proposition is outside Rickard's province altogether. It has been conceived and made finite by a local hospital chairity and will cause great loss of life at the turnstiles, provided the local commission may see fit to give its official benediction.

Walker once declined to do business with Dave Shade, the commission's candidate, and at present can not box here for money, macaroni or marbles. The cause of sweet charity, however, may soften the villain's proud heart.

Both Greb and Walker, respective middleweight and welterweight champions, have been on the ground for some days and are said to have yessed everything the promoters said. The rest of the story, therefore, remains with the commission.

The Villa-Rosenberg enterprise is also believed to be in the bag. Frank Churchill, the Filipino's mouthpiece, has had several amicable conferences with Rickard and only awaits the arrival of Pancho, the poncho, before disfiguring the dotted line. Like Walker in the Greb bout, Villa probably will have to stake Rosenberg to as much as five pounds in the way of a weight handicap. But, unless the little brown man has gone back further than popular belief has accorded him, everything should be all to the cabbage. Rosenberg, as a champion, is not for this life.

GOTHAM BOWLERS IN SECOND PLACE

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 6.—The Metropolitans of New York were in second place in the five-man event of the American Bowling congress today, only 27 pins behind the leaders after a fine showing last night.

The Metropolitans caused many a breathless moment last night when they almost overhauled the Buffalo team leading in the five man event.

Their total of 2,994 landed them in second place and formed the Caruanas team, also of Buffalo, down to third place.

The Blue Ribbon team, of Buffalo, won the five man event with a score of 3,025.

Western pin knights again broke into the limelight when Eddie Schupp and Eddie Karich, a Chicago pair, smashed out a 1,318 score to take first place in doubles, while Secord of Denver, Moorman, of Batesville, Ind., and Cohen of St. Louis gained places among the first ten in the singles.

The Denver and Batesville men went into a quadrangular tie with scores of 684 and Cohen managed to nose into a tenth place tie with 680.

AMATEURS PLAY AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., April 6.—One of the largest fields in the history of the event prepared today to tee off in the annual North and South Amateur Golf championship. Headliner among the entries was W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, former national champion, generally favored to win the event. Other likely entries included Donald Parsons, Youngstown, Ohio, P. S. H. Randolph, C. L. Becker, "Daff" Gammons, Providence, R. I.; the old Brown university football star; H. C. Fownes and J. D. Chapman.

CHAMPION "IF" TEAM OF 1925
Is What Cardinals May Be Called: But They Have Hornsby

ROGER HORNSBY

By Norman E. Brown.

The "if" team of the National League, is what the St. Louis Cardinals may well be called.

This team lined up as a cross word puzzle when the spring training season opened. And it doesn't stack up now, vertically or horizontally, as a ball club ready for a big league campaign.

The one big thing about Branch Rickey's team is that it has Rogers Hornsby. And that gives Rickey half a ball club. But what the other half will look like all summer is another matter.

Rickey will have a good pitching staff if—Walter Mails and old Allan Sothoron come through with goodly winning percentages. Mails bloomed, then faded with Cleveland. He's years older now. Sothoron has been a gamble all his baseball life.

Rickey will have a good outfield if—old Hi Myers has another good year left in his system and Ralph Shinners, once a Giant, delivers.

Rickey's infield will be a fair one if—Lester Bell delivers at third, if "Specks" Torpocer and Freigau deliver. But every one of these infielders is weak in some way.

Rickey's catching staff will be a capable one if—Mike Gonzales, the Cuban, has another good year. Wallie Schmidt of the Pirates may help Mike out. But Wallie is old.

Rickey has fewer real regulars drawing money from the club exchequer than any other manager in the big show, bar none. It has jokingly been said that he has two regulars—Hornsby and Jim Bottomley, star first baseman. That remark is too near the truth to be taken lightly.

The one thing about Rickey however, is that he can think two thinks ahead of many big league pilots. He is one of the brainiest men in baseball. He can see farther into a ball player than most managers. So out of this mess of "ifs" he can be expected to evolve some kind of a team that will keep the St. Louis fans interested in the National League race. And there is one thing which may be said of the team. No matter what kind of a lineup he throws into the game he will worry the opposing pitchers. He has a bunch of good and wicked hitters.

This sounds like a paradox. Mamma will tell you you can't be good and wicked. But a hitter can. A good hitter is one who hits .300 or better the season-round. And a wicked hitter is one who spoils a good afternoon for the sport writers by cocking out a double or some such hit about the eighth inning, thereby tieing the score when by all that is true and holy, the game should have needed the first half of the ninth.

So the Cards will be in the melee up to their necks, regardless of what Rickey finally makes out of his "ifs."

"Go Into the Bag This Way" Says Bancroft: Rookie Tries It

In the drive against betting in England it was disclosed that at one church young people wagered on the time taken by the vestryman in passing the collection box, and that the choirboys had had pools on the length of the minister's sermon.

Three World's Championship Scraps Carded For New York

Walker-Greb Battle Slated For June 19 On Giants' Grounds

COLLINS STAGES STAR COMEBACK

Quits Bad Habits to Become Cobb's Leading Hurler.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—According to the American League averages for the season of 1924, which are not only official but final and conclusive, Warren "Rip" Collins, two-gun man right off the Texas range, is the best pitcher at the Spring roundup of the Detroit Tigers here. This state of affairs would be hardly credible to a man who had not seen a major league box score in two years.

Two years ago "Rip" Collins was a gent who had all the eccentricities of Rube Waddell and "Bugs" Raymond without 20 per cent of the ability that was their redeeming characteristic.

He is still far from the level of these immortals, but he has so far overcome his natural tendencies as to be the leader of what Ty Cobb terms the best pitching staff Detroit ever had. Collins' story would furnish an excellent groundwork for the celluloid idea of righteousness triumphant.

Sportsmen Active.

MIDDLEPORT, April.—The sportsmen's organization of Meigs county, several hundred members strong, is demanding that fish be supplied for the streams of the county and that a head game protector be named. There now are two deputy procectors in this district.

'Go Into the Bag This Way" Says Bancroft: Rookie Tries It

In the drive against betting in England it was disclosed that at one church young people wagered on the time taken by the vestryman in passing the collection box, and that the choirboys had had pools on the length of the minister's sermon.

Sweden now has a population of 6,000,000, which is equal to that of Denmark and Norway combined.

Weight Tosser Works Out Twice Every Day

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 6.—If hard work counts for anything Jim Quinlan of Huntington, W. Va., weight man on the West Virginia University varsity track squad for the past two years, is going to be more valuable to the Mountaineer team this spring than at any time during his career. Realizing that the loss of Barnum and one or two other men handy with the shot and discuss places a heavy burden on his shoulders Quinlan is working twice a day to get himself in top physical condition for the 1925 campaign.

Quinlan scored heavily in the weight events in 1923 but last spring barely earned his letter as teammates crowded him out of first positions. He seemed content to place second or third and in the four dual meets showed little of the ability that made him a prominent factor the year before.

This season Quinlan is going about his work with an entirely different attitude. He knows that he must deliver the goods in the shot and discus if the Mountaineers are to be successful in their dual meets. Consequently he has decided to do overtime work and each day follows a short session at the noon hour with another practice period between 3 and 4 o'clock.

G. R. Thomas Hangs 85 Score in Practice For Golf Tournament

G. R. Thomas, of R. Thomas & Sons Co., and president of the East Liverpool Country club, is rounding into splendid shape at Pinehurst, N. C., for the annual club championship golf tournament, according to reports received here today.

Thomas, who witnessed the North and South tournament in which McDonald Smith and Walter Hagen competed, is registering scores of 85 in his daily workouts.

Thomas, J. B. McDonald and Albert Pickin are among the East Liverpool golfers in the South. Cliff Bough recently returned from Pinehurst.

American hardwood lumber is now being used extensively in England in the manufacture of automobile bodies, cars, vehicles and furniture.

GOTHAM BOWLERS IN SECOND PLACE

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 6.—The Metropolitans of New York were in second place in the five-man event of the American Bowling congress today, only 27 pins behind the leaders after a fine showing last night.

The Metropolitans caused many a breathless moment last night when they almost overhauled the Buffalo team leading in the five man event.

Their total of 2,994 landed them in second place and formed the Caruanas team, also of Buffalo, down to third place.

The Blue Ribbon team, of Buffalo, won the five man event with a score of 3,023.

Western pin knights again broke into the limelight when Eddie Schupp and Eddie Karich, a Chicago pair, smashed out a 1,318 score to take first place in doubles, while Secord of Denver, Moorman, of Batesville, Ind., and Cohen of St. Louis gained places among the first ten in the singles.

The Denver and Batesville men went into a quadrangular tie with scores of 684 and Cohen managed to nose into a tenth place tie with 680.

AMATEURS PLAY AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., April 6.—One of the largest fields in the history of the event prepared today to tee off in the annual North and South Amateur Golf championship. Headliner among the entries was W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, former national champion, generally favored to win the event. Other likely entries included Donald Parsons, Youngstown, Ohio, P. S. H. Randolph, C. L. Becker, "Daff" Gammons, Providence, R. I.; the old Brown university football star; H. C. Fownes and J. D. Chapman.

Can You Match This For Nerve?—

A man near here, who's car became mired in the mud, put in a call for the fire department to pull him out. Perhaps he figured it as a masterstroke of economy.

Some automobile owners have just about the same amount of nerve as this man, when they ask to have their old cars appraised. They expect us to make a big allowance on antiquated cars that we would'nt give away, much less sell. We want cars that we can overhaul and then sell with our personal guarantee of satisfaction.

Reformed Caveney "Makes" Reds

Futile efforts of the Cinci Reds to trade Jimmy Caveney, once expected to be a great little shortstop, convinced Caveney that he was approaching the end of his big league career. He has taken hold of himself and his playing this spring is a revelation. His infielding and his timely hitting seem to be the "making" of the team which was a disappointment last season.

POEMS THAT LIVE

The Trail and You.

One road leads to a mountain,
And another winds by the sea.
The high road's built for the great, great men;
But teh low road's made for me.
The mountain road is a kind road,
It kisses a sky of blue;
But the low lane leads me along, my friend,
Close by the side of you.

The mountain road is a sweet road
And roses are smiling there;
But my lane in the valley gives me these:
The sting of your tears to share,
And a part of your dreams to dream of,
And a bit of your smile and such;
And what do I care for a flower trail
If your shoulder is mine to touch?

The steep path over the valley
Looks out on a gorgeous view;
But I, on the hard, worn valley trail,
Can look in the eyes of you
And listen to true-blue laughter.
Oh, the mountain trail may be fine;
But here on my road I can walk with you
With the touch of your hand on mine.

Sues Coal Company.

MARTINS FERRY, April.—Claiming her health was injured because of smoke, fumes and gas issuing from a dump of burning stone and slate, near her home, Lulu Steel has filed suit against the Rail & River Coal company, near Gainesville, for $3,000 alleged damages. She also, asked for an injunction preventing the company from continuing to permit the dump to burn.

Aleppo, Syria, is at last to have a street railway, an electric plant and water supply system.

Marchioness to Follow Sister "Miracle" Star

The Marchioness of Anglesey, sister of Lady Diana Manners, star of "The Miracle," plans to go on the stage. Theatrical managers are anxious to sign her as she is a famed beauty. Her husband is Charles Henry Alexander Paget, 6th Marquess of Anglesey.

SPORT SPARKS

The fact that lemons grow in Groves evidently doesn't mean much to Connie Mack.

The injury to Maranville's leg may cost the Cubs the pennant. It's unusual for a rabbit's foot to bring bad luck.

What's in a Name?

"Is the first race in yet?"

"Yeh; Nervous Abie won by a nose."

If all the words written on the chances of staging a championship bout between Dempsey and Wills or Gibbons were placed end to end, the string would form a cobweb 70 miles wide btween the earth and the moon.

Spring fever is an affliction with which golfers are seized all the year 'round.

If the recruits released by the Yankees and Giants were combined, they could win almost any minor league pennant, and would not finish last in either of the big league circuits. And several big-time managers would be only too glad to grab the New York rookies, if they had the chance.

Reformed Caveney "Makes" Reds

Futile efforts of the Cinci Reds to trade Jimmy Caveney, once expected to be a great little shortstop, convinced Caveney that he was approaching the end of his big league career. He has taken hold of himself and his playing this spring is a revelation. His infielding and his timely hitting seem to be the "making" of the team which was a disappointment last season.

POEMS THAT LIVE

The Trail and You.

One road leads to a mountain,
And another winds by the sea.
The high road's built for the great, great men;
But teh low road's made for me.
The mountain road is a kind road,
It kisses a sky of blue;
But the low lane leads me along, my friend,
Close by the side of you.

The mountain road is a sweet road
And roses are smiling there;
But my lane in the valley gives me these:
The sting of your tears to share,
And a part of your dreams to dream of,
And a bit of your smile and such;
And what do I care for a flower trail
If your shoulder is mine to touch?

The steep path over the valley
Looks out on a gorgeous view;
But I, on the hard, worn valley trail,
Can look in the eyes of you
And listen to true blue laughter.
Oh, the mountain trail may be fine;
But here on my road I can walk with you
With the touch of your hand on mine.

Sues Coal Company.

MARTINS FERRY, April.—Claiming her health was injured because of smoke, fumes and gas issuing from a dump of burning stone and slate, near her home, Lulu Steel has filed suit against the Rail & River Coal company, near Gainesville, for $3,000 alleged damages. She also, asked for an injunction preventing the company from continuing to permit the dump to burn.

Aleppo, Syria, is at last to have a street railway, an electric plant and water supply system.

Marchioness to Follow Sister "Miracle" Star

The Marchioness of Anglesey, sister of Lady Diana Manners, star of "The Miracle," plans to go on the stage. Theatrical managers are anxious to sign her as she is a famed beauty. Her husband is Charles Henry Alexander Paget, 6th Marquess of Anglesey.

SPORT SPARKS

The fact that lemons grow in Groves evidently doesn't mean much to Connie Mack.

The injury to Maranville's leg may cost the Cubs the pennant. It's unusual for a rabbit's foot to bring bad luck.

What's in a Name?

"Is the first race in yet?"

"Yeh; Nervous Abie won by a nose."

If all the words written on the chances of staging a championship bout between Dempsey and Wills or Gibbons were placed end to end, the string would form a cobweb 70 miles wide btween the earth and the moon.

Spring fever is an affliction with which golfers are seized all the year 'round.

If the recruits released by the Yankees and Giants were combined, they could win almost any minor league pennant, and would not finish last in either of the big league circuits. And several big-time managers would be only too glad to grab the New York rookies, if they had the chance.

TO DELAY IS DANGEROUS

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

WARREN, April—Voters in Trumbull county will be asked next November to pass a bond issue for $100,000 for the purpose of erecting a tuberculosis hospital here. When completed, the hospital will consist of 50 beds and will be the finest in this part of the state. Tuberculosis patients now are sent to hospitals scattered in various cities throughout the state at a cost to the county of $15 a week.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, April.—Of the foreigners receiving nautralization papers in Belmont county cmomon pleas court here recently, 2 per cent were citizens of Czecho-Slovakia. Poland ranked second, with 18 percent, while Germany, Austria-Hungary and Ireland, which, formerly, were leaders, had only 4 or 5 percent.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Do You Own Your Own Home?
If Not, the Landlord Owns You
You Respect the Birds.
Pathetic Bible Passage.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Once you own YOUR OWN HOME, the roof above your head, the piece of ground beneath your feet, and know that you can PAY FOR IT, you may call yourself a thoroughly independent American citizen, AND NOT BEFORE.

Every year, through improved transportation, the owning of a home has been made easier. New regions are opened up to quick traffic by subways, elevated railroads and suburban trains.

Where yesterday there were fields devoted to farming, or lying idle, there are now paved streets, with gas, electricity, sewers, running water, waiting for men and women that have the courage and foresight to own THEIR PIECE OF THE EARTH.

You respect a bird when you see it coming back each year to build its nest in the same place. The swallows return to the same old chimney, the woodpecker comes back to his hole in the dead tree, and the tiny wren recognizes the hollow cocoanut shell put up for her comfort. They all inspire respect.

You say: "There is a bird that recognizes the importance of PERMANENCY. That little bird can't actually own property, but it does the next best thing. It settles in some one definite place and STICKS to it."

Owenship of your own house and home, a place that, once paid for, no man can take from you, has a most beneficial effect upon the mind of the father and mother, an effect greater and more important on the minds of children that live in the home.

Pity the poor child that is forever asking: "Where are we going to move next time?"

Pity children that grow up without attachment to any particular SPOT, any particular neighborhood, without any friends that they can know, and with whom they can grow up, as the years pass.

Why is it that children from the country come to the cities and achieve the great successes?

It is because those children come from country HOMES.

Their minds have grown and have expanded with a sense of security, permanency, of warm home life, neighborhood associations.

They have lived upon the earth, and it has seemed REAL to them. They have had their dreams of success, strengthened by continued living in one place, knowing the same trees, brooks and fields, and houses, however humble.

Growing up in your own home BUILDS CHARACTER.

In all the Bible there is no passage more pathetic than this:

"Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head."

Homeless, with no definite or settled place to lay His head, moving about, teaching, and finally dying a most cruel death, such was the fate of the Divine Spirit that established the Christian religion.

Let it be remembered that it is thanks to His work that THE HOME is the center of our civilization, of progress and worthwhile life. It was He, the Divine Teacher of men and the Divine PROTECTOR of women and children, that established their rights among human beings.

It is upon His teachings that the American home is founded.

From the MORAL point of view, from the PRACTICAL, common sense point of view, for the sake of the mother, and above all, for the sake of the children, every man should strive to acquire, to own and PAY FOR IN FULL, a fitting home for his family.

Grandeur is not necessary, or luxury. A good roof over your head, a substantial house, your own piece of ground within reach of a good public school and of good public library, accessible, with adequate transportation

GEORGIA WOMAN FIGHTS TO ESCAPE NOOSE FOR KILLING MOTHER-IN-LAW

Lessening of State's Battle to Hang Mrs. Ida Hughes Indicated at Hearing on Clemency Plea.

MERCY IS ASKED BY PROSECUTOR

Leniency is Based on Claim That Slayer Was Driven to Desperation by Nagging of Her Victim.

ATLANTA Ga., April 6.—A lessening in the state's fight to hang Mrs. Ida Hughes, convicted of the murder of her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes, was indicated here today shortly before hearing on a clemency plea by the woman was to start before the Georgia prison commission when Solicitor John A. Boykin, in a letter, asked mercy for her. Boykin had charge of the prosecution which resulted in the young woman's convicton.

Mrs. Hughes' attorneys asked that her sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Hughes herself was hopeful and so were her attorneys, but it was pointed out that only a very few persons had been granted clemency since Governor Clifford Walker assumed his duties at the state house.

Was Desperate.

The principal plea for leniency will be based upon the allegation that Mrs. Hughes was driven to desperation by the acts of her mother-in-law over a period of years—a term of nagging which was terminated only when her son was asked by his wife to request his mother to leave their home. That, she declared, she believed would end their differences, but it served only to fan the resentment between the two

SPECIAL POLICEMAN SHOOTS THRU CAR CURTAINS AS MOTORIST FLEES

Bullet From Officer Bloor's Gun Plows Through Windshield of Auto When Driver Fails to Stop.

The police today were investigating a shooting affray along the River road last night in which two of four boys, riding in an automobile, narrowly escaped being injured.

Four East End youths, whose names the police did not learn, reported to Captain Conley in the Diamond, at 9:30 o'clock last night, that some one had attempted to halt them on the River road near the Harker pottery as they were on their way to town.

A shot had been fired at the car when they failed to stop, the bullet passing through the side curtains of the machine, a touring car, just missing the heads of two of the passengers and plowing through the windshield. The lads asserted they failed to stop their car, believing that the gunman was either a holdup man or an enemy.

Later in the evening Special Officer Edgarie Bloor reported to Mayor Brown at the city hall that he had fired his gun in an effort to halt an automobile driver who had failed to heed his order to stop on the River road. Bloor declared that he fired at the cement road, denying that he

Add to the home a small automobile as soon as you can. It will pay for itself by saving and thus increasing your time.

To give your children a permanent home and its memories, a sound education, GOOD FOOD NECESSARY TO BUILD GOOD BRAINS is more important than a few extra dollars left after you die.

The money that you pay in rent for quarters fit to live in will gradually pay for a home better than the hired quarters left behind. That has been proved a million times.

Look carefully. Select wisely, not being deceived into purchase and not being RUSHED into a purchased.

BUY ONLY WHAT YOU KNOW YOU CAN GRADUALLY PAY FOR. Do not deceive yourself about that.

But east, north, south or west, provided you remain within reasonable access of work, or business, OWN YOUR OWN HOME.

If it means an hour, or more than an hour, morning and evening going from your home to your work, don't imagine that that is a detriment.

An hour at night and an hour in the morning are not too much for leisure, for relaxation, for thought, and for reading.

There is no satisfaction greater than the satisfaction of gradually making yourself independent. The first step to real independence is TO OWN YOUR OWN HOME.

J. A. Bohnet Speaks At Bible Students' Meeting on Sunday

The return of the Jews to Palestine is a fulfillment of the scriptures, J. A. Bohnet, New York, declared Sunday afternoon in an address at the Ceramic cafeteria hall, West Fifth street, under the auspices of the International Bible Students' association. His subject was "The Jews Rebuilding Palestine—the Reason."

"The Jews are now returning to their own land," he asserted. "Seven hundred thousand have already settled there and this number will gradually increase by the great influx of Jews which continue to pour back from all countries and lands. Luke 21:20 21 shows that when we see Jerusalem compassed about with armies, and it is compassed about on every side now by the British, then Jesus said we should understand the times in which we are living and through which some would pass.

"Before Jesus left the earth He said He would come again and receive His church to Himself. Jesus in His second coming will be an invisible being, present, yet unperceived by the world of mankind. The scriptures say that He will come as a thief, quietly and stealthily. The only way in which the world will ever see Jesus will be with the eye of understanding."

Fines Totaling $216 Assessed Against Three Men by Mayor

Fines totaling $216.20 were assessed against three men arrested here Saturday night, when they were arraigned before Mayor Charles Brown, Sunday, on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

The trio, it is claimed, had three revolvers and two large knives in their possession when searched. Michael DeBacco, Canton, and Joseph Gloanucci, Wellsville, charged with being suspicious persons, were dismissed.

The officers, it is claimed, were on the lookout for an automobile transporting liquor when they halted the car in which the five men were riding. No liquor was found in the machine, but three of the men when searched were found to be heavily armed, the police say.

CHAPMAN WILL ASK NEW TRIAL

Not Worried by Death Sentence, Bandit Plans Appeal.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 6.—In his death cell today, Gerald Chapman, convicted murderer, was hard at work in planning a campaign for an appeal. Chapman will probably base his argument for a new trial on the submission to the jury, on request, of a railroad time table which had not been in evidence.

The jury wished to check up the time it would take Chapman to get from Springfield, Mass., to Brooklyn, where the bandit king claimed he was the night before the killing of Policeman James Skelly, in New Britain, on October 13.

Chapman's attorneys contend that the jury had no right to go into the matter of the time table inasmuch as it had not been admitted as evidence.

The exact location of the "Chapman cell" within the grim, gray walls of the Wethersfield prison is known only to a few trusted guards and Warden Scott. Other secret measures also have been taken by the prison authorities to guard against rescue of Chapman by "Dutch" Anderson, his friend and teacher, or any of Chapman's other friends.

The prospect of hanging on June 25 is apparently not worrying Chapman. He ate his usual hearty breakfast this morning. Then he resumed his reading of the works of Anatole France. Chapman let it be known he believes it was the testimony of Lillian Knell, waitress at the Old Colony in Meridien, Conn., which sealed his fate in the minds of the jury.

The timid waitress identified Chapman from the witness stand as having spent the night preceding the crime at the Old Colony in with Walter Shean, Chapman's accomplice. The inn is only 13 miles from the New Britain store where policeman James J. Skelly was shot and killed. The girl's testimony was repeated to the jury on their request during deliberations.

New York Youth Surrenders After Killing Sweetheart

NEW YORK, April 6.—"I shot my sweetheart. The reason I shot her will never be known."

These words, uttered by James A. O'Mahoney, 27, as he tossed a revolver on the desk of Captain Patrick Flanngan, of the Greenwich, Conn., police, were the only solution authorities of that city and New York had today for the murder of Miss Beatrice Donnelly, 27, in a lonely neck of woods near Greenwich.

Beyond admitting the killing, O'Mahoney gave police no other explanation of his motive for the crime. His only comment was:

"I have been thinking of killing her for some time and I just had to do it."

Immediately following his matter of fact declaration, made in a police station at Greenwich Sunday afternoon, O'Mahoney shackled to a policeman led detectives to an unfrequented spot of the woods near the Indian Harbor Yacht club.

There in a clump of shrubbery O'Mahoney showed the body of his sweetheart. There were five bullets embodied in her head and neck. O'Mahoney, puffing a cigaret, told police how he had carried the body for 50 yards from a point in the road where he had shot her.

WOMAN'S SLAYER HANGS HIMSELF

NEW YORK, April 6.—A few hours before a lunacy commission was to report on his sanity, Solomon Batten, 29, awaiting trial for the murder of his brother's wife, Esther whom he slew because she repulsed his advances, hanged himself in his cell in the Tombs early today.

YOUR HEALTH

Indigestion Goes Hand in Hand with Bad Eating

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

PERHAPS the most common of all human diseases is dyspepsia, or indigestion. Every family has its victims and almost every individual is an occasional sufferer.

Why should there be so much trouble in connection with a function so essential?

If it were merely a matter of overworking an organ, why does not the heart complain? It is busy every minute, every hour, and all the time you live. To have the heart complain is a rare thing.

The lungs are called upon twenty times every minute and they go cheerfully about their endless task. But the stomach and intestinal tract are growing almost every day

If the heart and lungs were as much at the mercy of careless eating as are the digestive organs, they would complain too. They are lucky. They are not under your personal management.

It is your fault that the digestion fails. It isn't the fault of your body.

Most digestive disorders can be traced to wrong eating. Everybody has his peculiarities—to use a big word his idiosyncrasies. Not everybody can eat everything.

A friend of mine says he can eat anything which does not bite him first. But most persons must avoid a few dishes. Shellfish, cucumbers, cooked cabbage, fat meat and a few other things are peculiarly difficult of digestion for some.

It has been said that God could have made a better berry than the strawberry, but He never did. In spite of this however, this delicious fruit is little less than poison to some unfortunates.

Pastries, candies, pancakes, sausage, coffee and a few other things may not be well borne. With full knowledge that discomfort will follow their consumption, there are plenty of unwise mortals who do not hesitate to partake freely of the disturbing foods.

You can't fool your stomach. Why try? If you can't handle certain substances which appeal strongly to your palate, why is the use of yielding to the temptation? Really—forgive me if I suggest it—doesn't this show a lack of character?

Of course there are underlying physical conditions which influence digestion. For instance, constipation is responsible for many a day of indigestion.

While there are other causes for constipation, it too is frequently the result of wrong eating habits. Then in its turn the constipation adds to the causes of indigestion.

I have suggested a few of the things which make for failure of digestion. Think them over and on another occasion I will suggest other matters which have to do with digestive trouble.

HERRIOT FALL IS PREDICTED

Millerand's Victory Interpreted to Mean Premier's Overthrow.

PARIS, April 6.—Overthrow of the Herriot government is only a matter of days, according to today's newspapers' interpretation of Alexandre Millerand's sweeping victory yesterday. The former president of the republic was elected to the senate from the Seine district by a two-thirds majority.

The cabinet listened today for three hours to the reading by Anatole De Monzie, new minister of finance, of his proposed financial plan. This includes "voluntary contributions," asking each French citizen to give up ten per cent of his actual fortune for which the government will pay four per cent interest.

The cabinet did not reach a decision on the De Monzie plan. It adjourned to meet again this afternoon. In the meantime De Monzie meets with directors of the bank of France to discuss issuance of four billion francs in new bank notes.

"Millerand's election to the senate was the political death rattle of Premier Herriot," said Petit journal. "The beginning of a movement of revolt which threatens eventually to sweep away the Herriot administration," was Echo de Paris' attitude.

"In the same town of Fontainbleau where Napoleon said his farewell, yesterday afternoon was heard the swan song of Herriot, who was the inglorious Napoleon of the London conference," the Echo added, referring to the premier's speech of defiance.

"Milleran's election proves that truth crushed to earth will rise again. Truth is rising," said Lavenir.

"Herriot is punished by his own mistakes," said the Communist newspaper Humanite.

Government newspapers attempted to explain away Millerand's victory.

"Millerand's victory does not mean a defeat for Herriot," said Quotidien. "Millerand's party, the National bloc, took adavantage of Clementel's resignation, which was largely responsible for the outcome of the election."

"We will not contest the National bloc's temporary victory," said Le Oeuvre. "But it never would have been possible without the iniquitous electoral system of Paris."

Theunis, Belgium's Premier, Quits Post, Is Brussels Report

LONDON, April 6.—Premier Theunis of Belgium has resigned and King Albert has accepted his resignation, according to a Central News dispatch from Brussels today.

The premier had planned to retire regardless of the outcome of yesterday's election.

The outcome of the elections was still indefinite today, although it was indicated the Socialists had increased their power considerably.

Woman and Alleged Lover are Held for Murder of Husband

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 6.—Mrs. Margaret Lenardy, 30, and her alleged lover, John Provanzano, 22, were being held by police today as material witnesses in the mysterious slaying of her husband, James, 32, while he lay asleep beside his wife in bed early yesterday morning. The Lenardy's came here from Pittsburgh, Pa.

Lenardy was shot four times at close range by some one who entered the Lenardy home by removing the kitchen window and creeping past three sleeping children in an adjoining room.

The slayer escaped without being seen by Mrs. Lenardy, who claims she was not awakened by the shots, and discarded his gun in a nearby yard.

David Stephenson Attacks Indictment On Grave Charge

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 6.—Charging that the Marion county grand jury indicted David C. Stephenson, former Indiana dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, for the alleged criminal attack upon Madge Oberholtzer, 28, was improperly selected and prejudiced, counsel for Stephenson today asked the criminal court to quash all charges.

Judge James A. Collins took the motion under advisement.

The attention of the prosecution in the case today was directed toward a search for Earl Gentry and Earl Klenk, both of whom were charged with the former klan leader on a conspiracy count growing out of the alleged criminal attack.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 6.—Active trading in the motor and oil stocks with prices gradually advancing to higher levels, featured the stock market in the early trading today. The rally in prices since last Friday has benefitted principally the stocks of the motor manufacturers, the so-called automobile accessory, companies and the oil stocks, and has considerable increased the market activity of a dozen or more heretofore inactive motor shares, like Jordan, Hupp, Hudson, Pierce Arrow, etc. The Maxwell stocks jumped into the foreground at the opening of business today the "B" stock mounting to a new high at 62 5/8 and "A" stock pushing through to 92.

Investment interest in the forthcoming issuance of new Dodge Brothers securities is keen. Nash motors jumped to a record high at 334, up 14½.

Oil stocks made further progress in their early rally from the low levels of last week, despite the fact that producers in the mid-continent field are expecting a cut in crude oil prices there this week.

Compared to last weke's low price, Mariand Oil showed a gain today of about 5 points; Sinclair up 2½ at 20½; Phillips Petroleum up 3; Mid-continent up 2; Standard Oil of New Jersey up 3; Skelly up 3; Shell Union up 2.

Both the grain and cotton markets opened higher and showed considerable strength in the early dealings, call money opened at 3¾ per cent. The slight increase over Friday's close. Commodity prices were soft, though the decline of 3 points in Fishers index for last week was due principally to the drop in wheat futures.

The French political and financial crisis was without particular significance in American markets.

women until the elder was shot dead. Mrs. Hughes will contend that she was so enraged when her mother-in-law attempted to search a trunk containing her personal belongings that she fired without knowing what she had done.

"I don't remember having the gun in my hand," Mrs. Hughes said in an interview. "The first time I saw it from the time my husband laid it down was when it was introduced in evidence during my trial."

Write Governor.

On the other hand there will be foes a-plenty for the young woman. Daughters and a son of Mrs. M. C. Hughes have joined to accuse their sister-in-law of "outrageous conduct" to an extent which compelled her own mother to order her from home at the age of 12. They have written Governor Walker that the very dress Mrs. Ida Hughes wore at the trial was the property of their mother—taken by their sister-in-law. Mrs. M. C. Hughes, they contend, consented to live with Ida and her husband only after she had been begged many times.

Hundreds of letters from all parts of the country have been received by the governor bearing on the case, and a very great many of them have demanded that the law be allowed to take its course.

"What is a jury trial for, anyway?" asked one writer, a school teacher.

The sentence of the court now is that Mrs. Hughes be hanged on April 24.

Only two women have been put to death legally in the state of Georgia, so far as records show, and these are said to have both been negroes. No white woman, so far as records show, has ever mounted the scaffold.

had pointed his gun point blank at the machine.

Bloor had stopped another car along the road, which, it is claimed, carried four passengers. While he was questioning the occupants of the machine, the car bearing the four youths approached, headed in the direction of town. The driver said that he heard some one call for him to stop but as the man wore no uniform he did not recognize him as a policeman.

The quartet drove to the Diamond and thinking that some one had attempted to rob them they asked the police to be on the lookout for their assailant.

Careful check of every available source of information early today revealed that 21 homes were totally destroyed although many others were partially dismantled.

Three Towns Suffer.

The twister, formed apparently when two heavy storm clouds crashed head-on over the everglades northwest of Hialeah, switched its cone-like tail over six townships north of here. It finally swooped out into the open sea.

Witnesses of the tornado said that it swept out to the Everglades southeastward for a half mile, flattening four houses enroute, and then struck the White Belt dairy with full velocity, piling up 19 houses and sheds in huge stacks of kindling wood, and sucking trees, debris, animals and human beings high into the air.

It was traveling north and east at a speed of about 20 miles an hour in a hop, skip and jump movement. It passed over Hialeah, doing little damage to the million dollar racing plant there, Little River, Lemon City, Biscayne Heights, Liberty and Buena Vista, reaping heavy damage in the first three, but scarcely toughing the last three.

195 AT BARACA CLASS SESSION

Attendance at the Baraca class session in the First Baptist church Sunday morning totaled 195, just five short of the goal of 200, which has been set for Easter Sunday.

The class has been divided into two sides—the Blues, in charge of George Pickens, and the Reds, captained by Charles Pomeroy. The Blue side had 100 members out Sunday, the Reds 95.

This class, said to be the largest in the Ohio Valley, is taught by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the church.

Catarrh of Head and Stomach Almost Wrecked This Man's Health.

Pays Glowing Tribute Now to World's Tonic

"For fifteen long years I was practically all the time suffering until I began taking World's Tonic and I suffered agonies with my stomach. For hours after every meal I was racked with pain from head to foot and nothing seemed to relieve me until I took World's Tonic, which I now recommend to everybody else.

"For honestly, I think it is the grandest medicine on earth", said Mr. W. H. Mitchel of Dayton, Ohio in a recent letter to the World's Tonic home office. "Pains in my stomach bothered me and usually it seemed that I had a lump in my stomach. The food I ate did not taste good, my appetite was very poor and I also suffered from catarrh of the head. Mornings I would wake up with my nose all stopped up and it would require sometime to remove the dry scabs that had formed during the night. I would spit up a great deal of mucus. I became uneasy for fear this catarrh might turn into something worse.

"Many said I suffered from ulcerated stomach which they said was the reason I had indigestion all the time and fluttering of the heart. Being in this condition so long got on my nerves and I would lie awake for hours at night and was rarely able to work the next day. I went this way day after day, week after week, without getting any relief until World's Tonic came into my home. What a blessing it has been for it saved me many hours of good sleep and worry and it has put me in condition so I am able to work with vim.

"I can now eat anything I want without any bad after effects and the catarrh in my head is about gone. In fact, World's Tonic has done everything claimed for it and I had to use only five bottles to obtain all this good result."

Sold by Carnahan's also Brennan's, Wellsville, and all other good druggists.

LONGO-STRADA AWAIT TRIAL

Will Face Court on Charges of First Degree Murder.

No date has been determined upon for the trial of Fred Longo and Dominick Strada, Italians, of Canton, who are held in the county jail at Lisbon on charges of first degree murder, in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Vincenzio Desmonia, at her home in Broadway on Sunday night, February 22.

Mrs. Desmonia was shot down in the doorway of her residence after she had responded to a knock on the door. The shooting occurred several hours after Rocco Benvento, a resident of Broadway, had been slain in Third street.

Both a revolver and a shotgun, it is said, were used by Mrs. Desmonia's assailants. One of the weapons, it is claimed, was fired from an automobile, drawn up along the curbstone directly in front of the door of the Desmonia residence.

Strada and Longo were brought to Wellsville from Lisbon where they had been arrested following the shooting.

James Gagliardi, sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary for the slaying of Benvento, after a jury in the case had returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, with a recommendation of mercy, is still a prisoner in the county jail at Lisbon, awaiting court action on the defense counsel's motion for a new trial.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1925.

Municipal Political Campaign

The 1925 campaign for municipal offices has been formally opened with the announcement by Mayor Charles Brown, now serving his first term, that he will seek re-nomination on the Republican ticket at the primaries on Tuesday, August 11.

The mayor's declaration of candidacy is expected to be followed by other entries. Reports indicate that the political bee is buzzing around others who have their eyes on the mayoralty as well as other offices whose incumbents must appeal to the people for support at the polls.

Under the Ohio election laws, prospective candidates must throw their hats into the ring for the municipal fight within 60 days from the date of the election. Declarations, signed by at least five electors, must be filed with the Columbiana county board of deputy supervisors of elections not later than June 12.

No doubt the final action on the Emmons bill providing for a municipal court in East Liverpool, will be a factor in determining the decision of reported candidates for the mayoralty. If the measure, which was vetoed last week by Gov. Donahey, is passed over the state executive's head, it is not improbable the number of candidates for the mayor's place will be decreased. For enactment of the court proposal is expected to be followed by councilmanic legislation reducing the $1,800 salary of the mayor. This should be done, for creation of the court means the executive will be relieved of police court duties which now occupy no small part of his time.

Letting Germany In

The latest proposal for European settlement looks like common sense.

Germany is tired of being an outcast, and wants to get back into the European sisterhood of powers. For that, she says, she is willing to bind herself to be good and play fair. She will acquiesce in her present eastern and western frontiers, with the possible exception of the Polish boundary, and pledge herself not to seek any change in that except by peaceful methods. She refuses to regard the Versailles treaty as the last word, but asks only a voice herself in making changes to fit new conditions.

The British government encourages this attitude, and is willing to admit Germany to the league of nations, give her the place on the league council reserved for her in the covenant, and start from there to guarantee European peace with both sides sitting at the table with all their cards face up.

France may agree to this. It seems to give her as much as she can hope to get by any other procedure. Germany, no doubt, deserves punishment; but the allies have been unable, in seven years, to devise any way of punishing her severely without punishing themselves at the same time.

The British rejection of "one-sided pacts directly pointed at Germany" seems logical, after all the fruitless efforts based on such pacts. Welcoming Germany to a common council table is worth trying, if only as a new experiment. At the worst, it is better to have a suspected enemy where you can watch him. If France can see things in this light, the outlook for world peace will be more rosy.

Germany Abolishes Debt

The "valorization" of the German national debt is an interesting procedure. The German government is refinancing its internal debt at 5 cents on the dollar. War and pre-war bonds with a face value of 70,000,000,000 gold marks will be called in and in exchange for them the holders will be given bonds amounting to 3,500,000,000 gold marks. Thus Germany reduces her national debt, exclusive of reparations, at one stroke from about $17,000,000,000 to less than $1,000,000,000.

It amounts to stupendous robbery of the German people and of the foreign sypmathizers, including many Americans, who bought the German securities in good faith. Most of the bonds, it is true, are now held by speculators; wherefore there is a slight concession given to those who have held their bonds more than five years. But the original investors were moved to sell their holdings only after deliberate inflation of German currency had already made all government paper of little value. The present revaluation of bonds is of a piece with the original wrecking of German money values.

Thus Germany has shifted the cost of the war, as far as national loans are concerned, to those who lent Germany the money to carry on the war. It is hard on them. But for that very reason, the ultimate effect may be considered good. It will be many a year before Germans lend their government money to finance another war.

French Capital Flees

French capitalists are shipping their capital to neighboring countries. Authorities in Valenciennes, near the Belgian border, say that nearly three billion francs have been exported from that city to Belgium in the last three months. There is systematic encouragement of such transfers in Belgium, and the French glady avail themselves of the privilege.

That French capital is fleeing from taxation. The government has been planning heavier taxes lately, to save the value of the franc and extricate the country from its perilous position of near bankruptcy. It has even talked of capital levies. So far, the French have not paid as heavy taxes as the other allies, and tax-paying even to a moderate degree goes much against the grain of the thrifty French folk.

This exportation of capital, however, is precisely what the French criticised the Germans so severely for, a little while ago. It is unlikely that they will get out of the hole until they face the situation as honesty as the British did from the first, and as the Germans have now begun to do.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

CHERBOURG, April 6. — Back, through picturesque Normandy again, to Cherbourg. Always the same picture—peasants in the fields, the big white Norman horses pulling carts. And the inevitable slashing shower. Scarcely ever a rainless day in Normandy.

The Olympic was at anchor outside the breakwater and the porter pirates descended upon us at the boat train. I was determined not to give another tip in France. Porters are paid by the steamship companies for the work they do. Mine was a scarred and scowling brigand.

He stood waiting with hand extended after his casual service. When he became insistent I suggested a retreat for him that would take him out of the Cherbourg chill. He blasphemed me in French and I dittoed in English—winning fair honors. For once I felt rather iron willed.

We waited in the foggy dampness on the tender while the usual custom haggling was taking place. Ancient Cherbourg was etched in the falling dusk. It reeks of antiquity. The people seem listless and even the dogs were having their woe.

And speaking of dogs, there is a gentle-eyed pointer with a collection box strapped to his back that meets all steamers. The animal collects—or is supposed to—for the unfortunate animals of Cherbourgh. I suspect it is another gesture in French petty graft.

Every hotel servant in Paris comes to you with a subscription blank for some charity which I am told goes mostly in their own pockets. France has a blind spot for this petty graft. It would not be interested in a law to stop gouging tourists. That is the national sport.

It was a mighty relief to step up the gang plank to the Olympic. I have crossed in—you do not cross "on" a steamer from Europe but "in"—her before. She is swift and sturdy and somehow manages usually to have a gay and sporty passenger list.

My stateroom was amidships and the pitch of the boat caused a mighty creaking—like that of a giant shoe. I had the feeling of a slate pencil being pulled through my teeth. The purser came to the rescue and gave me a creakless room.

I notice among the passenger list Sir E. Mackay Edgar and man servant and Mr. Samuel Goldwyn and man servant. It would be appropriate for two other passengers to be listed: Mrs. O. O. McIntyre and man servant.

Royalty is represented by Prince Antoine Bibesco. And Count Verchere Uchida. Zoology is represented by a Mr. Wolff, Miss Baer, Mr. Fox, Mrs. Lyon and Mr. Lapperd.

A gaudy printed card was slipped under my door in the midst of my home-going happiness reading: "Apply at once to Mr. M. Fothergill on deck C for your return voyage." I wrote on the reverse side: "Don't be silly. Am not returning." And sent it back.

I have lost so many hats and caps from promenade decks that I took the precaution to journey to the Latin Quarter before leaving Paris to purchase a black tam worn by the Basque students. It would require a typhoon to lift it off. I suppose I will be mistaken for a poet or painter and already I find myself growing a little sad-eyed and temperamental.

I have found quite a philosopher in a quaint and venerable night steward. He is broken and bent. "In drinking to the health of others," he said, "I lost my own."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By Michael F. Dacey.

DENVER, April 6.—KOAS's international radio audience will have their first opportunity early in May to hear Denver's far famed Music Week Celebration and annual Spring Festival of more than 500 events.

Musical organizations of 27 western cities will be represented, according to Freeman H. Talbot, executive director of the Denver Music Week Association. Included on the program will be the opera, "Erminie," an evening of dancing by students of Denver dancing schools, competitive choral singing by senior choruses, an afternoon concert for advanced students, a chorus of 4,000 school children, and a novelty attraction of ten concert grand pianos which will be played at once.

More than 40 instrumental bands and orchestras will be heard by listening in on KOA, in addition to 50 choruses and 60 church choirs.

Other features during the week include community singing in factories, stores, churches and among neighborhood groups, competitive singing by service clubs and educational lectures on musical topics.

Radio is rapidly stimulating a universal understanding and sympathy in religion, political economy, language, morals and arts, in the estimation of Talbot, who is also director of programs and studio manager of KOA.

"If there was ever a cosmopolitan audience in the history of the world, it is the unseen audience of radio," he declared. "Outstanding achievements of radio, from the standpoint of civilization, are a breaking down, so-called, of an exclusiveness among humans." Bankers and janitors, he commented, merchants and executives, electrical workers and students are daily listening to the same broadcasts in company with elevator boys and invalids, millers, miners, factory workers, farmers and campers. To these and others radio has brought new lines of thought—new ideas for the mind to feed upon.

"Radio's cosmopolitan audience — the radio fraternity itself—embraces sailors, lighthouse keepers and many globe trotters," Talbot said.

"Countless thousands who hear KOA never saw a stage coach, an Indian, an eagle, ice or frost or an oil well," Talbot declared. "Many living in the prairie states never had a glimpse of a mountain peak or perpetual snow. 'Timberline' to them is a reading word and nothing more.

"Companionship among people, sympathy among people, and an exchange of ideas and associations are the result of radio.

"Across vast expanses of desert, mountain tracts, desolate islands and bodies of water, listeners to radio are gathering new information; they are feeling the pulse of a different life; a new culture; they are hearing strange voices and strange people. To the city dweller, who is surrounded by noise and crowds of a great metropolis, radio brings a secluded but intimate association with far-off speakers and singers, clergymen and actors. Through it, too, persons on the outpost of civilization feel in intimate touch with the world. The participate in the bustle and rush of the city they long to visit and altogether know the pulse of metropolitan life."

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The Memorial Bridge.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 6.—More than three-quarters of a century ago President Andrew Jackson dreamed of the day when the Potomac river, the stream that is to Washington what the Tiber was to Rome, would be spanned by a noble bridge which would stand through the centuries as a magnificent symbol of the grandeur of the Republic.

In a Fourth of July address in 1851, Daniel Webster projected a similar dream. He saw rising on the axis of the Capital across the Potomac, a structure of "ever-enduring granite, symbolical of the firmly established Union of the North and the South."

Now the dream of Jackson and Webster is to come true. In the Arlington Memorial bridge, on which work was begun on March 5, the day after the Sixty-Eighth congress expired. Washington is to have another great national monument which for patriotic appeal and architectural splendor will vie with the Washington Monument and the Lincoln memorial.

The bridge itself is to be only a part of an improvement scheme which includes the environs of the Lincoln Memorial and the Arlington cemetery. As a whole it constitutes one of the most gigantic undertakings of this kind ever authorized by congress. President Calvin Coolidge, Vice President Charles G. Dawes and Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the next house are members of the commission which recommended the project and which is to supervise construction.

The bridge will span the Potomac over a direct line from the Lincoln Memorial to the Lee Mansion in Arlington. According to the present estimates of the designing engineers, it will cost the government $14 750,000 to complete it and the work will take ten years. When it is finished Washington will have a great entrance which will be comparable to what Rome had in the Appian Way over which the emperors used to march in triumph.

So quietly were the plans for the bridge worked out and presented to congress for action at the last session that the public at large did not realize that more was contemplated than simply a large bridge across the Potomac and its immediate approaches. As a matter of fact, the undertaking has several features which taken together will make it the greatest single memorial project launched by any nation in recent times.

A Great National Memorial.

It supplements and completes the Lincoln Memorial in finishing the landscape in its vicinity and it carries the Mall treatment of the Capital as conceived by George Washington and Major L'Enfant across the Potomac to Arlington and up to the very portico of the Lee Mansion. Thus it creates one huge national monument combining the Lincoln Memorial, the bridge itself and the National cemetery.

Provision is made in the estimates for the widening of the streets leading to the Lincoln Memorial and to a magnificent plaza from which the bridge will debouch. There is a compelling patriotic motive in the conception of a broad boulevard leading from the Capitol by way of the Lincoln Memorial and on across a dignified bridge as a route for the Nation's fallen heroes to their resting place on the slopes of Arlington in the shadow of the Virginia hills.

There is a third great motive in the complete plan and that is the construction of a magnificent entrance into the National Capital from Virginia for the Lee Highway which spans the continent from Los Angeles to Washington. This great highway now crosses the Potomac by the Francis Scott Key bridge further up the stream, a circuitous, much congested and much less beautiful route than the proposed one across the Memorial Bridge.

Finally and perhaps more important than any of the others, the bridge between "Lincoln and Lee" will constitute a lasting symbol of the binding together of North and South in one indivisible Union.

As the traveller approaches Washington over the brow of Arlington Heights in Fort Meyer, there will burst on his view a panorama that has few equals in the world and one which cannot fail to provoke inspiration, loyalty and devotion to country, as Jackson and Webster hoped when they dreamed their dreams.

The bridge will consist of nine spans, a draw span in the center, flanked on

Plan to Reorganize Swedish Defense is Framed by Laborites

STOCKHOLM, April.—Reorganization of the defense of Sweden has been proposed to the Rigsdag by the Labor government.

The Laborites are anxious to reduce public expenditures and claim that one of the easiet methods of doing this is to reduce expenditures upon the national defences, without lowering the efficiency of these defences.

The reduction in the defences would not be immediate, but would be made over a prolonged period at the end of which the annual expenditures for which the annual expenditures for defence would be 96,000,000 kroner, as compared with 181,500,000 in 1914.

The reduced expenditures would apply chiefly to the army, and the navy would be kept practically as it is at present.

What Pretty Girl Did For Sick Stomach

Miss E. Rich of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I don't know what the cause was, but every few days my stomach would feel all bloated up with gas, my appetite was poor and I felt sick to my stomach—to say nothing of headaches.

"I never thought of using Carter's Little Liver Pills until nothing seemed to help. After using Carter's I felt relieved at once—and now as soon as my stomach 'talks' back I answer with Carter's and have the last word."

Haskin's Letter

each side by four masonry spans. It will have a total length of 2,138 feet between the terminal plyons or towers. Over all, the width will be ninety feet which after allowing for a fifteen foot sidewalk on each side will give sixty feet of roadway. This will be wide enough to permit of six lanes of automobile traffic moving across the bridge simultaneously. There is no bridge in America and probably none in the world that will be able to compete in beauty or in capacity for traffic with the Memorial Bridge.

Draw Span May Be Replaced.

The commission hesitated before deciding to have a draw span in the center, in view of the small amount of shipping going beyond this section of the Potomac, and it is hoped that some time in the future this span will be replaced by a masonry span similar to the others. In order that the center span shall not mar the symmetry of the bridge, all operating machinery for operating it, including the fender houses and the look-out stations, are to be kept entirely below the bridge and out of sight.

To assure that the appearance of the bridge may be in harmony with the Lincoln Memorial, its arches have been kept as simple and severe as possible with significant pieces of sculpture of the highest quality of design provide its main beauty. The granite to be used in construction will harmonize completely with the Colorado Yule marble used in the Lincoln Memorial and at a distance will resemble marble. Of the $14,750,000 to be expended under the congressional authorization only $7,250,000 is to be spent on the bridge itself. The remainder of the appropriation is to be spent on the beautifying of the approaches on the Lincoln Memorial side and on the Arlington side. One of the features of the construction will be two tall towers at the Washington entrance to the bridge, and placed 500 feet from the Lincoln Memorial. These will be forty feet in height and are to be adorned with sculptured groups and appropriate inscriptions, surmounted by eagles, symbolic of the United States of America. There will also be a magnificent water gate leading from the bridge and plazar to the rive drive. The water gate will consist of a mounmental terrace and a flight of steps of great width flanked on each side by a series of sculptured lions adding beauty and gignity to the approach of the Lincoln Memorial.

Columbia Island which is composed of ground retrieved from the river will be the Virginia treminal of the bridge. At this end will be another huge plaza with appropriate adornment, in a measure supplemental to the Lincoln Memorial on the Washington side. Two stately columns will be erected here to correspond with the towers on the other side. They will be so placed that they will not interfere with the view of the Lincoln Memorial from the Le Mansion.

These columns symbolize, the one the North, the other the South. They are surmounted by statues of Victory, the stylobates or bases whence they rise offering surface suitable for decorations, base-reliefs, and inscriptions. The columns are 168 feet high or practically of the same height as the Colonne de Juillet in Paris.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"Perhaps is will be best." M. de Rivarol took up a paper. "Before going further, I have to observe that M. de Cussy has exceeded his instructions in admitting you to one-fifth of the prizes taken."

"That is a matter between yourself and M. de Cussy, my general."

"Oh, no. It is a matter between myself and you."

"Your pardon, my general. The articles are signed. So far as we are concerned, the matter is closed."

"But, nom de Dieu! It is your concern, I suppose, that we cannot award you more than one tenth share."

"You are quite certain of that, M. le Baron; that you cannot?"

"I am quite certain that I will not."

"In that case," said Blood, "it but remains for me to present my little account for our disbursement, and to fix the sum at which we should be compensated for our loss of time and derangement in coming hither. That settled, we can part friends, M. le Baron. No harm has been done."

"What the devil do you mean?"

"Is it possible that I am obscure? My French, perhaps, is not of the purest, but—"

"Oh, your French is fluent enough; too fluent at moments, if I may permit myself the observation. Now, look you here, M. le Filibustier, you have accepted service of the King of France, you and your men. The first obligation of an officer is obedience. You are not to conceive yourselves, as you appear to be doing, my allies in the enterprises I have in view, but my subordinates. In me you behold a commander to lead you, not a companion or an equal."

"My superior officer! You! Why, you are just a common pirate."

"Oh, be sure that I understand," Captain Blood laughed. He was recovering his normal self amazingly under the inspiring stimulus of conflict. The only thing that marred his enjoyment was the reflection that he had not shaved. "I forget nothing, I assure you, my general. I do not forget, for instance, as you appear to be doing, that the articles we signed are the condition of our service; and the articles provide that we receive one-fifth share. Refuse us that, and you cancel the articles; cancel the articles and you cancel our services with them. From that moment we cease to have the honor to hold rank in the navies of the King of France."

Captain Blood rose, his officers rose with him. Captain Blood bowed.

"M. le Baron!" said he.

"You shall be advised of my resolve," M. le Baron retorted.

That resolve proved to Captain Blood's way next official business brought these two together. Wolverstone was the cause of Captain Blood hunting audience with the admiral while he sat at dinner. The Old Wolf had retorted with his ready fist a mocking Frenchman's remarks and had been flung in jail. M. de Rivarol bade his visitor be admitted.

There entered now into his presence a spruce and modish gentleman, dressed with care and somber richness in black and silver, his swarthy, clear-cut face scrupulously shaven, his long black hair in ringlets that fell to a collar of fine point. In his right hand the gentleman carried a broad black hat with a scarlet ostrich plume, in his left hand an ebony cane. His stockings were of silk, a bunch of ribbons masked his garters and the black rosettes on his shoes were finely edged with gold.

"Your people have arrested the wrong man, M. de Rivarol," Captain Blood began. "Instead of the French officer, who used the grossest provocation, they have arrested Captain Wolverstone. It is a matter which I beg you to reverse without delay."

"Sir, you—you are insolent! But of insolence that is intolerable!"

"M. le Baron, you waste words. Justice is justice in the New World as in the Old. That justice I invite you, with submission, to administer."

"With submission?" snorted the baron in furious scorn.

"At the same time I will remind M. le Baron that my buccaneers number 800; your troops 500; and M. de Cussy will inform you of the interesting fact that any one buccaneer is equal in action to at least three soldiers of the line."

"You will do me the favor to wait in the ante-room, M. le Capitaine. I desire a word with M. de Cussy."

When the door had closed, the baron loosed his fury upon the head of M. de Cussy.

"So, these are the men you have enlisted in the King's service, the men who are to serve under me! What explanations do you offer me, M. de Cussy? I warn you that I am not pleased with you. I am, in fact, as you may perceive, exceedingly angry."

The Governor seemed to shed his chubbiness. He drew himself stiffly erect.

"M. le Baron, it was folly to have arrested the buccaneer captain. It would be madness to persist. We have not the forces to meet force."

M. de Rivarol condescended to be mollified. It was necessary that he should save his face.

"Very well," he said. "Be so good as to recall this Captain Blood."

The Captain came in, assured and very dignified. M. de Rivarol found him detestable; but dissembled it.

"M. le Capitaine, I have taken counsel with M. le Gouverneur. From what he tells me, it is possible that a mistake has been committed. Your captain shall be released."

Captain Blood bowed.

"And now, sir, you have had the night for reflection in this matter of the articles. Am I to understand that you confirm or that you repudiate them?"

"I have considered that, too," he announced. "And whilst my opinion remains unaltered, I must confess that since M. de Cussy has pledged us, it is for us to fulfill the pledges. The articles are confirmed, sir."

Blood and his officers were summoned a week later to a council which sat to determine their operations against Spain. M. de Rivarol laid before them a project for a raid upon the wealthy Spanish town of Cartagena, which was rich in gold loot. Captain Blood professed astonishment. Sourly invited by M. de Rivarol to state his grounds for it, he did so with the utmost frankness.

"You mean, sir, that we are to sail across the Caribbean on an adventurous expedition, neglecting that which lies here at our very door. In our absence, a Spanish invasion of French Hispaniola is possible. If we begin by reducing the Spaniards here, that possibility will be removed. We shall have added to the Crown of France the most coveted possession in the West Indies."

Captain Blood laughed outright. He had suddenly read the Baron's mind. M. de Rivarol, intrigued by his mirth, scowled upon him disapprovingly.

"Why do you laugh, monsieur?"

"Because I discover here an irony that is supremely droll. You, M. le Baron, General of the King's Armies by Land and Sea in America, propose an enterprise of a purely buccaneering character; whilst I, the buccaneer, am urging one that is more concerned with upholding the honor of France. You perceive how droll it is."

"M. le filibuster," cried Rivarol in a thick voice, "it seems that I must again remind you that I am your superior officer."

"My superior officer! You! Why, you are just a common pirate! M. le Baron, I have the honor to wish you good-day."

He stalked out, and his three captains, although they thought him mad—rolled after him in loyal silence.

Nevertheless, it was to Cartagena that they sailed in the middle of March. Volunteers and negroes had brought up the forces directly under M. de Rivarol to twelve hundred men. With these he thought he could keep the buccaneer contingent in order and submissive.

They made up an imposing fleet, led by M. de Rivarol's flagship, the Victorieuse, a mighty vessel of eighty guns. Each of the four other French ships was at least as powerful as Blood's Arabella, which was of forty guns. Followed the lesser buccaneer vessels, the Elizabeth, Lachesis, and Atropos, and a dozen frigates laden with stores, besides canoes and small craft in tow.

OHIO WILL PAY CROW BOUNTY; FARM MENACE

They May Migrate and Force Extradition Proceedings.

ASSEMBLY ACTS

Two-bit Gunners Prepare for Crusade in State.

CLEVELAND, March.—While the blithe sky-lark, thanks to P. B. Shelley, sits tight as a shining example of what glory awaits all good members of the bird tribe, the traditional black crow of Ohio hangs over some farmhouse door, quoting "Nevermore!"

The raven-hued creature, whose chief claim to posterity is that he inspired some live wire distiller to name a mellow brand of whisky "Old Crow," has more today to bewail than the fact that Volstead robbed him of this distinction.

For the Ohio legislature has swept aside sentiment and threatens to make the progeny of this feathered worthy as scarce in this state as the proverbial dodo bird.

When the Legislature carries out its present plan the cross-word puzzlers will wrack their brains for a word of this description:

A four-letter word beginning with a "c" and ending with a "w," meaning two bits.

Bounty for Crows.

The answer, of course, will be "crow," for the solons have provided a bounty of twenty-five cents for all heads of crows exhibited as the result of slaughter.

To the legislature this magroid flyer appears as a fowl of evil omen. He is a destroyer of eggs of worthier birds, a poacher upon cornfields, and has not a virtue to redeem him, they say. The experts in the bird department at Washington have rather sided with the crow, but at best to damn him with their customary faint praise.

Nevertheless, guns will soon be blazing away all over Ohio by those bent upon appropriating two-bit allotments of the bounty placed upon the feathered outlaw's head.

Hard Cash.

He will soon have to muffle that quaint caw which has rung through the valleys and over the hillsides of Ohio since the days of the pioneers—and before. Else he will become converted into hard cash. He will have to depopulate the farm yards and the fields.

And the farmer who has learned to love his rasping call at daybreak, despite his alleged bad habits, may wipe away a tear of sentiment as he points a gun to fatten his purse. But crows are wary of guns, and take flight even when a stick is pointed in their direction. They might, in their wisdom, migrate to Indiana, or Michigan, or Kentucky, or West Virginia.

Then the legislators will have to get extradition papers before they shoot 'em.

Anyway, the path a young crow travels these days in the Buckeye state is a dangerous one. And he'd better look out or the two-bit hunter 'll get him.

ELYRIA, April—George Sabolich, 40, Lorain, insists he has been dead 15 years and demands collection of his insurance money so that he can have a good time. Judge H. C. Wilcox sent him to the state asylum at Massillon.

Supper.

This is another menu designed to help the woman who does not serve meat during the Lenten season.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Fluffy Cream Omelet — Whip some cream stiff, allowing a gill of cream to two eggs. Whip the whites of the eggs also to a stiff froth. Season the yolks and beat until light and foamy. Turn the whipped cream into the whites and mix well, add the yolks and again until all are blended. Have a liberally buttered pan very hot over a moderate fire. Pour in the mixture and cook as you would any omelet, shaking to prevent burning. Remove when set and dot with any kind of jam or jelly and serve.

Peach Cobbler — Line a deep, square pan with a good crust and finish the top by marking the edge with the tines of a fork. Take enough halves of canned peaches drained from their juice, to make a thick bottom layer and sprinkle over them some sugar unless they are cooked in a very rich syrup, and you think they are sweet enough. Put on another layer of fruit and sprinkle with more sugar. Pour over all a small tumbler of melted apple jelly. Dredge the top lightly with flour and bake in a moderate oven until the crust is a good brown. Fruit or pudding sauce or a hard sauce may be served with the cobbler.

Vegetable Loaf — One-half cup cooked green peas, one-half cup cooked string beans, one-half cup chopped cooked carrots, one-half cup chopped cooked potatoes, two cups milk, one cup bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, one egg.

Press the peas through a sieve, cut the vegetables in small pieces; combine the vegetables. Add the beaten egg to the milk. Add this to the vegtables. Put in a buttered baking dish. Cover with crumbs and bake until the crumbs are browned and the milk is absorbed. A suggestion of garlic may improve this dish. A small piece from one of the pared cloves of garlic will give a desirable zest.

Cup Pie—One cup cranberries, one cup raisins, one and a quarter cup sugar, one cup walnut meats, one cup apples. Put apples, raisins and cranberries through meat chopper (coarse blade), mix up with the sugar. Put on bottom crust and over the mixture put English walnut meats, cut fine by hand. Over all put top crust. Quite rich.

Because of the high cost of transportation of wheat and flour from the interior of Turkey, it has been found cheaper to bring those commodities from outside countries.

Clean Telephone.

Every one these days is very particular to have sanitary glasses from which to drink and avoids using the same tumbler another person has used. And yet just as great a transmitter of disease is often neglected for weeks—the telephone mouthpiece. It should be wiped out every few days with a weak solution of lysol or carbolic acid to prevent the spreading of colds, grip and other germs.

Maryland Oystermen Fight Germ Carriers; Plan is Outlined

BALTIMORE, Md., April.—A. L. Sullivan, Satte Drug commissioner, has ordered all employees of oyster packing plants to submit to a physical examination before the next oyster season rolls around in September. The commissioner points out that the United States Health Service has established a rigid code of regulations affecting sanitation and general health conditions in places engaged in the oyster business.

It is said blod tests of employees made last February as a result of the Illinois ban on Maryland oysters, revealed that quite a number of workers were possible typhoid carriers.

JUST smooth gently on to the irritated skin a coating of Resinol Ointment, and see how quickly his fretful crying stops. The moment this soothing ointment touches the skin it relieves the itching and burning and hastens the healing. Does not smart when applied and its ingredients are harmless—two facts which make it specially suitable for babies.

Gallant Swains Flee With Brides From Angry Bull

NORWICH, England, April — Five brides fled in terror and five bridegrooms had a dramatic opportunity of proving their mettle when a bullock dashed into the local justice's of the peace office just as the five couples were about to be married.

The vows were just about to be said when a tremendous clatter was heard in the outer offices, and the next instant the bullock was in the inner office, while the registrar, his assistant, and the prospective brides fled.

The husbands, evidently thinking that discretion was the better part of valor, wisely withdrew, and the marriages were celebrated later when the bullock had been captured.

Stop Sale of Ginger.

COLUMBUS, April.—Many Ohio druggists voluntarily have discontinued the sale of Jamaica ginger and so-called liquor substitutes because of their wide use as beverages, said Theo. D. Wetterstroem, secretary, Ohio State Pharmaceutical association. The situation, he declared, is becoming extremely serious. He blamed this condition, in large measure, upon stores which, while not bonafide drug stores, advertise themselves as such, it was claimed.

Waits 28 Years, Goes 12,000 Miles To Shoot Brother

GENEVA—Declaring that he had waited 28 years and traveled 12,000 miles to achieve his purpose, Luca Boz, a 60-year-old Italian, gave himself up to the Lugano police after shooting his brother.

Boz declared that his brother robbed him of his inheritance when a young man, forced him to emigrate, and then married his fiancee. He learned of this shortly after his arrival in Australia, and immediately began to save up money for his journey of revenge.

Boz arrived and walked straight to the shop owned by his brother, and without a word drew a revolver and shot him.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Battleships Are Obsolete As Defense, Says Famous Inventor

Col. Lewis of Machine Gun Fame, Thinks Airplanes Supercede Land Fortifications.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April.—Colonel Isaac Newton Lewis, inventor of the Lewis machine gun and one of the foremost living authorities on modern warfare, in the first interview he has given since the begining of the current aircraft controversy, declared here recently that every battleship and fixed land fortification in the world is obsolete as a means of defense against airplanes.

Colonel Lewis, whose machine gun was used by practically every allied nation that engaged in the World war, declared that he had retired from active life and that he did not speak officially. But expressing his own opinion, based on his knowledge of military affairs and experience gained during the World war, he said:

"Having seen the seamy and tragic side of the last war, I sincerely hope that there will never be another war. But that hope cannot be realized, and we must prepare.

"If there is any one lesson that should be learned from the last war it is that airplanes have made fixed fortifications for coast defense obsolete. And this applies to all fixed fortifications—even to those we have on the Atlantic coast and at the Panama Canal.

"The same applies to the battleships of the present type, no matter how many millions of dollars have been spent on their construction or how big their guns may be. The development of airplanes, plus our improved means of communication, has rendered the $15,000,000 battleship an anachoronism in modern warfare.

"The two elements, to my mind, that must determine the naval defense of the future are aircraft and submarines, supplemented by speedy light armored torpedo boat chasers and destroyers.

"On land, also, the defenses will be dominated by airplanes, and these will be supplemented by machine-gun battalions and motor-mounted infantry. Field artillery, with the heavy guns mounted on movable bases, fighting emplacements for which have been prepared in advance, must take the place of all fixed armament"

Big School Saving.

BUCYRUS, April—A saving of $85,552 in the operation of Bucyrus schools from September 1, 1924, to March 1, last, is indicated in a report by Prof. Jesse L. Ward, superintendent of the schools, to the board of education. Expenses from September 1, 1923, to March 1, 1924, totaled $191,221, while expenditures from September 1, 1924, to March 1, last, aggregated $105,669, a saving of nearly 45 per cent.

So many were the congratulatory telegrams and messages sent to Queen Alexandria, of England on her 80th birthday, that two secretaries were kept busy for several days in opening them.

Three World's Championship Scraps Carded For New York

Walker-Greb Battle Slated For June 19 On Giants' Grounds

COLLINS STAGES STAR COMEBACK

Quits Bad Habits to Become Cobb's Leading Hurler.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—According to the American League averages for the season of 1924, which are not only official but final and conclusive, Warren "Rip" Collins, two-gun man right off the Texas range, is the best pitcher at the Spring roundup of the Detroit Tigers here. This state of affairs would be hardly credible to a man who had not seen a major league box score in two years.

Two years ago "Rip" Collins was a gent who had all the eccentricities of Rube Waddell and "Bugs" Raymond without 20 per cent of the ability that was their redeeming characteristic.

He is still far from the level of these immortals, but he has so far overcome his natural tendencies as to be the leader of what Ty Cobb terms the best pitching staff Detroit ever had. Collins' story would furnish an excellent groundwork for the celluloid idea of righteousness triumphant.

Was Not Serious.

The young man came to the Yankees' camp at Jacksonville in 1920 with excellent prospects and not the slightest idea of taking training seriously. Miller Huggins wearied of the unequal battle ultimately and sent Collins to Boston in one of the famous or infamous Yankee-Red Sox deals. He outlasted his welcome in Boston with commendable haste.

Rip always had plenty of stuff, however, so Cobb decided to take a chance on him. It seemed to be a bad guess, for Collins' first year in Detroit was far from inspiring, and it seemed only a question of time until he would pass on into the outer darkness of baseball's forgotten.

The young man, however, is nobody's dumbbell. He saw the fine Spencerian script on the club house wall and went into conference with himself as the 1293 season closed. His sole asset consisted of one dependent family. His liabilities were an unfortunate lack of responsibility and the prospect that the early weeks of the 1924 season would furnish him his last chance. He proceeded to cure both in the most approved manner.

Went to Work.

Instead of loading and enjoying himself in his typical way during the off season he took a job. I use the term job advisedly. It wasn't a position. He became foreman of a gang on a Texas railroad.

It meant going to bed with the folks of the barnyard and arising in the cold gray dawn of the morning after. It meant that Collins' nocturnal pleasures were no more. It meant hard, back-breaking work in the open.

It meant that Collins, in 1924, was destined to take his legitimate place among American League pitchers. It meant, I hope, the beginning of a long and successful career in the major leagues, something that the Rip Collins of 1920-23 had no hope of attaining.

Kaplan vs. Mascart at Garden on May 5, and Villa vs. Rosenberg at Yankee Stadium is Remainder of Fistic Schedule.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, April 6. — Three world's champions of the manly art of legalized assault will risk their titles in local rings within a matter of three months, according to the rapidly maturing plans of Mr. T. Richard, the well-known promoter, and others. Listed in the order the proposed enterprises follow:

Mickey Walker vs Harry Greb at the Polo grounds June 19, with middleweight title at stake.

Louis Kid Kaplan vs Edouard Mascart at Madison Square Garden May 5 for the featherweight championship.

Pancho Villa vs Charley Phil Rosenberg at the Yankee stadium in July for bantamweight title.

In all, five world's champions and a European titleholder will be involved in the proceedings, indicating rather clearly that New York is about to emerge from the fistic doldrums. Kaplan and Marcart probably will sign for their frolic some time today, although Johnny Dundee is still a possibility with Kaplan. Our Mrs. Rickard favors John over Mascart, European champion, but doesn't care for his terms, which seems to be louder and funnier.

The Greb-Walker proposition is outside Rickard's province altogether. It has been conceived and made finite by a local hospital chairity and will cause great loss of life at the turnstiles, provided the local commission may see fit to give its official benediction.

Walker once declined to do business with Dave Shade, the commission's candidate, and at present can not box here for money, macaroni or marbles. The cause of sweet charity, however, may soften the villain's proud heart.

Both Greb and Walker, respective middleweight and welterweight champions, have been on the ground for some days and are said to have yessed everything the promoters said. The rest of the story, therefore, remains with the commission.

The Villa-Rosenberg enterprise is also believed to be in the bag. Frank Churchill, the Filipino's mouthpiece, has had several amicable conferences with Rickard and only awaits the arrival of Pancho, the puncho, before disfiguring the dotted line. Like Walker in the Greb bout, Villa probably will have to stake Rosenberg to as much as five pounds in the way of a weight handicap. But, unless the little brown man has gone back further than popular belief has accorded him, everything should be all to the cabbage. Rosenberg, as a champion, is not for this life.

CHAMPION "IF" TEAM OF 1925

Is What Cardinals May Be Called: But They Have Hornsby

ROGER HORNSBY

By Norman E. Brown.

The "if" team of the National League, is what the St. Louis Cardinals may well be called.

This team lined up as a cross word puzzle when the spring training season opened. And it doesn't stack up now, vertically or horizontally, as a ball club ready for a big league campaign.

The one big thing about Branch Rickey's team is that it has Rogers Hornsby. And that gives Rickey half a ball club. But what the other half will look like all summer is another matter.

Rickey will have a good pitching staff if—Walter Mails and old Allan Sothoron come through with goodly winning percentages. Mails bloomed, then faded with Cleveland. He's years older now. Sothoron has been a gamble all his baseball life.

Rickey will have a good outfield if—old Hi Myers has another good year left in his system and Ralph Shinners, once a Giant, delivers.

Rickey's infield will be a fair one if—Lester Bell delivers at third, if "Specks" Torpocer and Freigau deliver. But every one of these infielders is weak in some way.

Rickey's catching staff will be a capable one if—Mike Gonzales, the Cuban, has another good year. Wallie Schmidt of the Pirates may help Mike out. But Wallie is old.

Rickey has fewer real regulars drawing money from the club exchequer than any other manager in the big show, bar none. It has jokingly been said that he has two regulars—Hornsby and Jim Bottomley, star first baseman. That remark is too near the truth to be taken lightly.

The one thing about Rickey however, is that he can think two thinks ahead of many big league pilots. He is one of the brainiest men in baseball. He can see farther into a ball player than most managers. So out of this mess of "ifs" he can be expected to evolve some kind of a team that will keep the St. Louis fans interested in the National League race. And there is one thing which may be said of the team. No matter what kind of a lineup he throws into the game he will worry the opposing pitchers. He has a bunch of good and wicked hitters.

This sounds like a paradox. Mamma will tell you you can't be good and wicked. But a hitter can. A good hitter is one who hits .300 or better the season-round. And a wicked hitter is one who spoils a good afternoon for the sport writers by cocking out a double or some such hit about the eighth inning, thereby tieing the score when by all that is true and holy, the game should have needed the first half of the ninth.

So the Cards will be in the melee up to their necks, regardless of what Rickey finally makes out of his "ifs."

MIDDLEPORT, April.—The sportsmen's organization of Meigs county, several hundred members strong, is demanding that fish be supplied for the streams of the county and that a head game protector be named. There now are two deputy procectors in this district.

GOTHAM BOWLERS IN SECOND PLACE

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 6.—The Metropolitans of New York were in second place in the five-man event of the American Bowling congress today, only 27 pins behind the leaders after a fine showing last night.

The Metropolitans caused many a breathless moment last night when they almost overhauled the Buffalo team leading in the five man event.

Their total of 2,994 landed them in second place and formed the Caruanas team, also of Buffalo, down to third place.

The Blue Ribbon team, of Buffalo, won the five man event with a score of 3,023.

Western pin knights again broke into the limelight when Eddie Schupp and Eddie Karich, a Chicago pair, smashed out a 1,318 score to take first place in doubles, while Secord of Denver, Moorman, of Batesville, Lnd., and Cohen of St. Louis gained places among the first ten in the singles.

The Denver and Batesville men went into a quadrangular tie with scores of 684 and Cohen managed to nose into a tenth place tie with 680.

AMATEURS PLAY AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., April 6.—One of the largest fields in the history of the event prepared today to tee off in the annual North and South Amateur Golf championship. Headliner among the entries was W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, former national champion, generally favored to win the event. Other likely entries included Donald Parsons, Youngstown, Ohio, P. S. H. Randolph, C. L. Becker, "Daff" Gammons, Providence, R. I.; the old Brown university football star; H. C. Fownes and J. D. Chapman.

Weight Tosser Works Out Twice Every Day

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 6.—If hard work counts for anything Jim Quinlan of Huntington, W. Va., weight man on the West Virginia University varsity track squad for the past two years, is going to be more valuable to the Mountaineer team this spring than at any time during his career. Realizing that the loss of Barnum and one or two other men handy with the shot and discuss places a heavy burden on his shoulders Quinlan is working twice a day to get himself in top physical condition for the 1925 campaign.

Quinlan scored heavily in the weight events in 1923 but last spring barely earned his letter as teammates crowded him out of first positions. He seemed content to place second or third and in the four dual meets showed little of the ability that made him a prominent factor the year before.

This season Quinlan is going about his work with an entirely different attitude. He knows that he must deliver the goods in the shot and discus if the Mountaineers are to be successful in their dual meets. Consequently he has decided to do overtime work and each day follows a short session at the noon hour with another practice period between 3 and 4 o'clock.

G. R. Thomas Hangs 85 Score in Practice For Golf Tournament

G. R. Thomas, of R. Thomas & Sons Co., and president of the East Liverpool Country club, is rounding into splendid shape at Pinehurst, N. C., for the annual club championship golf tournament, according to reports received here today.

Thomas, who witnessed the North and South tournament in which McDonald Smith and Walter Hagen competed, is registering scores of 85 in his daily workouts.

Thomas, J. B. McDonald and Albert Pickin are among the East Liverpool golfers in the South. Cliff Bough recently returned from Pinehurst.

American hardwood lumber is now being used extensively in England in the manufacture of automobile bodies, [illegible] cars, vehicles and furniture.

"Go Into the Bag This Way" Says Bancroft: Rookie Tries It

In the drive against betting in England it was disclosed that at one church young people wagered on the time taken by the vestryman in passing the collection box, and that the choirboys had had pools on the length of the minister's sermon.

Sweden now has a population of 6,000,000, which is equal to that of Denmark and Norway combined.

Can You Match This For Nerve?—

A man near here, who's car became mired in the mud, put in a call for the fire department to pull him out. Perhaps he figured it as a masterstroke of economy.

Some automobile owners have just about the same amount of nerve as this man, when they ask to have their old cars appraised. They expect us to make a big allowance on antiquated cars that we would'nt give away, much less sell. We want cars that we can overhaul and then sell with our personal guarantee of satisfaction.

Reformed Caveney "Makes" Reds

Futile efforts of the Cinci Reds to trade Jimmy Caveney, once expected to be a great little shortstop, convinced Caveney that he was approaching the end of his big league career. He has taken hold of himself and his playing this spring is a revelation. His infielding and his timely hitting seem to be the "making" of the team which was a disappointment last season.

POEMS THAT LIVE

The Trail and You.

One road leads to a mountain,
And another winds by the sea.
The high road's built for the great, great men;
But teh low road's made for me.
The mountain road is a kind road,
It kisses a sky of blue;
But the low lane leads me along, my friend,
Close by the side of you.

The mountain road is a sweet road
And roses are smiling there;
But my lane in the valley gives me these:
The sting of your tears to share,
And a part of your dreams to dream of,
And a bit of your smile and such;
And what do I care for a flower trail
If your shoulder is mine to touch?

The steep path over the valley
Looks out on a gorgeous view;
But I, on the hard, worn valley trail,
Can look in the eyes of you
And listen to true blue laughter.
Oh, the mountain trail may be fine;
But here on my road I can walk with you
With the touch of your hand on mine.

Sues Coal Company.

MARTINS FERRY, April.—Claiming her health was injured because of smoke, fumes and gas issuing from a dump of burning stone and slate, near her home, Lulu Steel has filed suit against the Rail & River Coal company, near Gainesville, for $3,000 alleged damages. She also, asked for an injunction preventing the company from continuing to permit the dump to burn.

Aleppo, Syria, is at last to have a street railway, an electric plant and water supply system.

Marchioness to Follow Sister "Miracle" Star

The Marchioness of Anglesey, sister of Lady Diana Manners, star of "The Miracle," plans to go on the stage. Theatrical managers are anxious to sign her as she is a famed beauty. Her husband is Charles Henry Alexander Paget, 6th Marquess of Anglesey.

SPORT SPARKS

The fact that lemons grow in Groves evidently doesn't mean much to Connie Mack.

The injury to Maranville's leg may cost the Cubs the pennant. It's unusual for a rabbit's foot to bring bad luck.

What's in a Name?

"Is the first race in yet?"
"Yeh; Nervous Abie won by a nose."

If all the words written on the chances of staging a championship bout between Dempsey and Wills or Gibbons were placed end to end, the string would form a cobweb 70 miles wide btween the earth and the moon.

Spring fever is an affliction with which golfers are seized all the year 'round.

If the recruits released by the Yankees and Giants were combined, they could win almost any minor league pennant, and would not finish last in either of the big league circuits. And several big-time managers would be only too glad to grab the New York rookies, if they had the chance.

TO DELAY IS DANGEROUS

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.
